Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane—

THE POSITION of President Coolidge in the oil scandal is not pleasant or easy. He will do his duty thoroughly in his own way, there is no doubt about that. But the men involved, through official connection with the matter, whether guilty or innocent of an illegal act, are the appointees of President Harding. President Coolidge is obliged to act more cautiously and circumspectly than would be the case if the men were his own appointees.

ONE THING is certain. It is fortunate for the people that they have in Congress such men as Caraway and Walsh to watch the corruptionists, and not afraid to demand the truth and the right punishment.

ENGLAND is feeling more cheerful. MacDonald, the Labor leader, praises the Prince of Wales and his "respected father, the King," and says the British Empire is all right. It is, probably, for able Englishmen, from the King down, trained to think through centuries and to give way gracefully, will give the Labor government a fair chance.

Even the London stock market is cheerful, with the railway strike settled, and Labor sitting in the high places without any earthquake or tornado sweeping away Buckingham Palace.

LOUCHEUR, said to be the greatest financial authority in France, believes that conditions are better all around in Europe. The fact that the United States has kept out of there, while patiently postponing payment of Europe's ten-billion-dollar debt, has helped.

The wise father leaves his extravagant son to find out the value of money by letting him do without it for a while.

Wise Uncle Sam will render the best service to Europe by letting Europe realize that from the trouble she got into she must get out.

ONE HUNDRED and ten little Pomeranians—very small, fluffy pet dogs—were exhibited in New York city last week. Each dog had a nicely dressed lady, nurse or owner, watching the dear little creature, affectionately and faithfully. Those dogs are worth more than $100,000.

NOT FAR away, in an institutional ward, you can find one hundred and ten human babies, three or four nurses taking care of a whole lot. And all the babies put together are hardly

HOLDS UP ORDER FOR $100,000 FUND

Committee Refuses to Give Sanction Until Names of Probers Are In Washington, Jan. 30 (I.N.S.).—The Senate Appropriations Committee today voted unanimously to withhold from President Coolidge the $100,000 appropriation passed by the House for the employment of special counsel to investigate naval oil leases, unless the President submits his appointments to the Senate for confirmation.

The House bill, which turned the fund over to the President without strings, was amended to provide that any counsel employed by the President under the authority of this resolution shall "be appointed by an l with the advice and consent of the Senate."

Coolidge Asks Strawn to Dig Out Evidence

Washington, Jan. 30.—The government's first affirmative action toward prosecution of the naval oil cases was taken today while the Senate still was debating the Walsh lease annulment resolution.

President Coolidge conferred with Silas H. Strawn, who, with Thomas W. Gregory, will act as special government counsel, and immediately afterward Mr. Strawn began the collection of evidence.

Just before the Senate renewed its floor discussion, the oil investigating committee heard four physicians testify that the condition of former Secretary Fall would not warrant his appearance at a public hearing. The committee then decided to send a medical commission of its own to examine him.

DOHENY MUST WAIT.

E. L. Doheny reappeared at the committee room and requested that committee hear him, but adjournment was taken until Friday without his being placed on the stand.

$50 ASKED FOR CURE OF WELL MAN

West End Doctor Takes Fee and Gives Medicine to Investigator

The American introduces today as subject number eight in its series of articles on practitioners of medicine a young man who describes himself as Abraham Rifkin, M. D.

Doctor Rifkin's sign hangs in a conspicuous position in the first floor window of a three story brick tenement house at No. 11 Temple street, West End.

The doctor was admitted to practice in Massachusetts about three years ago. He admits his diploma came from the St. Louis college which recently was characterized as the "Diploma Mill."

An investigator for this paper visited Dr. Rifkin at his office on December 21, 1923.

In the light of the hallway the visitor, whom we will call "Jones," had dificulty in locating the flat in which the doctor's office and examination room are located. A girl of about fifteen years responded to the push button call. She invited Jones in, saying the doctor would return in about ten minutes.

EXAMINED BY DOCTOR

On the front wall of the room hung the doctor's license. No diplomas were visible. A case of books occupied a position along the north wall of the room behind the chairs assigned to patients.

Physicians at the Boston City Hospital had, a few days prior to his call, declared "Jones" to be as near perfect in physical condition as any young man of his ge could be.

It was 10 minutes later when Dr. Rifkin arrived. He removed his hat and seating himself at his flat top desk said to "Jones":

"What can I do for you?"

Jones replied:

"I came in for an examination

FITZGERALD ATTACKS JUDGES

West End Representative Declares Some of Them Are "Biased" and "Unfit"

Charges that some lower court judges were biased, unfit and "nothing but auxiliary police captains," were made by Representative John I. Fitzgerald of Boston before the Joint Committee on Judiciary today.

Appearing in favor of bills calling for the appointment of additional Superior Court justices Representative Fitzgerald made a bitter attack on the present Superior Court system.

In the presence of former Attorney-General Herbert Parker, George L. Mayberry and other prominent lawyers, he declared that lawyers of Suffolk County had lost their nerve.

HAYDEN AND PERRIN.

He said Judge Hayden had made a spectacle of himself. Judge Perrin was unfit to sit on the Superior Court bench, and declared that unless the present system is changed this State would have election of judges in five years.

Fitzgerald followed Senator John W. Haigis, who spoke on his own bill calling for the appointment of twelve additional Superior Court justices.

Fitzgerald's bill calls for appointment of only three additional Superior Court justices. He began by saying the Legislature made a serious mistake passing a law allowing lower court judges to sit in the Superior Court.

"Lower court judges sitting in Superior Court," he said, "want to discourage the right of appeal. They have doubled sentences, they have been arrogant and biased, and I wonder why the press has not taken it up.

HAVE FALLEN DOWN.

"In this morning's news there was a glaring incident of a man with nine convictions against him in the lower court getting a sentence of two months and a $200 fine. Another man on only his second offence

Ford Offers to Give 500 Sedans for 5c. Fare Fight

Akron, O., Jan. 30.—Mayor Rybolt, city counsel and supporter of the city five-cent street car fare in Akron or the ousting of the Northern Ohio Traction Company cars from the streets on February 1, were confident of a complete motorization of the city by Friday, when Henry Ford entered the fight on the city's side.

Ford telegraphed H. E. Firestone that he would send 500 sedans to the city at once if they were needed and that the cars would be furnished free.

WILD SESSION FOLLOWS STEEL DIVIDEND

Thousands of Buying Orders Pour in on Exchange, Boosting Stocks 1 to 6 Points

New York, Jan. 30.—One of the wildest stock market sessions in recent years took place this morning when thousands of buying orders poured onto the floor of the exchange as a result of the declaration of an extra dividend of 50 cents on the common stock of the United States Steel Corporation, initial gains of active issues ranging from one to six points.

The first sale of U. S. Steel common, which was not recorded for several minutes because of the accumulation of orders, was 7,000 shares at 106, or 2% above yesterday's close.

The stock then reacted, but later advanced to 107, the highest since last April.

In the face of the Washington oil investigation, Pan-American "A" jumped 3 points and "B" rose 4 before reacting.

Wall Street was taken completely by surprise by the size of the extra dividend and the substantial increase in the earnings of the Steel Corporation for the last quarter of 1923.

American Army Lieutenant and Companions Pardoned by State of Baden

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND

(Copyright, 1924, by Universal Service)

Berlin, Jan. 30 (Universal Cable).—Corliss Hooven Griffis, daring young American Army lieutenant from Hamilton, O., serving a sentence in German prison for attempting to forcibly kidnap Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft dodger, and bring him to the United States, has been pardoned.

The decision to release the young Ohioan was made known by the National Government, after Berlin had finally succeeded in prevailing upon the Government of the State of Baden to take that action.

ASSOCIATES PARDONED

The document that gives Lieut. Griffis his freedom was delivered by me to Griffis at the Mosbach Prison today.

Simultaneously with the release of the young American lieutenant, whose patriotic knight errantry resulted in the death of one man, Carl Schmidt, a Frenchman, two other associates in the Bergdoll adventure, Roger Sperber, a French detective, and Prince Gargarin, a Russian nobleman, will also be pardoned.

The freeing of Griffis and the pardoning of his two companions was accomplished by the Hearst newspapers through quiet negotiations, tactful efforts and persistent representations to the German government, which I began shortly after their conviction. The truth of this was expressly recognized in a

30 OFFICERS SWOOP ON CHINATOWN IN RAID

The biggest series of raids undertaken in Boston in years, started in Chinatown this afternoon, when thirty federal officers swooped down on seven places almost simultaneously. The places raided are the shops and restaurants at Nos. 5, 7, 9 and 11 Oxford place, and 15, 17 and 19 Tyler street. The Federal men searched for dope and liquor and Chinese illegally smuggled into the country.

HEARST PAPERS WIN FREEDOM FOR BERGDOLL KIDNAPERS

statement authorized by the German Foreign Office, which said:

"At the repeated requests and representations of Mr. Karl H. Von Wiegand, in behalf of the Hearst newspapers, Foreign Minister Dr. Gustav Stresemann and the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs Baron Ago Von Maltzan, have been intensively working in order to obtain the pardon of Lieutenant Griffis, the American citizen, and his associates imprisoned in Germany.

"The Foreign Minister and the Secretary of State have both undertaken everything possible to fulfill the request of Mr. Von Wiegand, with the result that the pardon of Mr. Griffis and his accomplices has now been obtained from the government of the State of Baden."

Griffis was sentenced on December 5 to twenty-one months, after a trial in which he pleaded justification on the ground of patriotic motives. In addition to his prison sentence he was fined two billion marks.

Detective Sperberg and Prince Gargarin were given shorter sentences. Schmidt, the fourth man in the plot to kidnap the draft dodger, was killed by Bergdoll.

The American Government was not a little embarrassed, because a United States Army motor car, said to belong to the Graves Registration Commission in France, was used in the ill-fated adventure.

Mr. Hearst cabled me to 'make every effort to obtain pardon for Griffis.'

It became quickly evident that this could be accomplished, if at all, only through quiet methods, without any attempt of pressure of any kind. The task involved tactful persistence and delicate negotiations, and was complicated by the fact that the National Government did not have the power to grant a pardon.

It became especially difficult because this was the second trespass on German territory by Americans in an effort to take Bergdoll by force in utter disregard of German laws.

Both the State and national governments know that public opinion considered that German laws had been flouted and held in contempt, and that, moreover, the violators of the law in the first attempt to kidnap Bergdoll, had shot a German girl through the hand, crippling her for life.

Notwithstanding all this, magnanimity has been shown and the men pardoned, though the Baden government, particularly, had long felt that the summary punishment had been necessary to discourage further attempts on the person of Bergdoll.

Still another, and for a time insurmountable obstacle, was the attitude taken that the Griffis case could not be separated from that of his two French and Russian companions, who were considered less guilty than the American lieutenant, though their motives were wholly mercenary. Thus it became necessary to work for the pardon of all three, in order to free Lieutenant Griffis.

TECHNICAL OBSTACLE.

The Baden Government feared the effect of public opinion if Sperber, a Frenchman, was released when so many Germans are languishing in French prisons.

At the last minute, when all the misgivings of the National and the Baden State Governments had been overcome, and a definite promise had been made to me that Griffis and his companions would be immediately pardoned, there arose an obstacle which almost blocked the whole effort.

Counsellor Siebert of Wiesbaden, who had been engaged for Griffis by someone in the United States, appeared to have little hope for a pardon—so little, in fact, that he did not even apply for one, but pressed for a revision of the sentence, which would have meant a new trial.

CLIPPED PARDON POWER.

It was discovered that this appeal absolutely prevented the exercise of the pardoning power, and even Griffis himself under the law could not withdraw the appeal, even had he known that such an appeal had been entered.

The difficult task of disentangling this skein and finally cutting the intricate German legal red tape, was personally directed by Secretary of State Ago Von Maltzan, who somehow found time to take up the case of the young American, despite the exigencies of pressing international affairs.

Counsellor Walter de Haas and Baron Herbert Von Richthofen, of the German diplomatic service, and now attached to the Foreign Office, strongly supported Foreign Minister Stresemann and Secretary of State Von Maltzan in the fight for the release of Griffis, and worked out the details.

OBSTACLES OVERCOME.

Attorney Siebert was notified to meet a representative of the Foreign Office at Frankfort, from which city the two went to the ministry of justice at Karlsruhe to formally withdraw the appeal for revision of the sentence. They thereby undid the technical obstacle, and let the pardon applied for by the Hearst papers have the right of way.

The negotiations with the two governments for pardons was all but wrecked when success was in sight, by an ill-advised and misdirected public campaign started in the United States by a Chicago paper a few days ago. Dispatches from Chicago, reprinted in Paris, created the impression here that an attempt was being made to make it appear to the American people that it was necessary to raise public funds to buy off the German Government in order to get Griffis released.

This was indignantly resented in official circles.

Release of Griffis Big Victory, Says Quinn

"The release of Lieutenant Griffis from the German prison where he was serving sentence for attempting to kidnap Bergdoll, the draft dodger, is a great victory for the American people and American patriotism," said National Commander Quinn of the Legion today.

He was told of the release of Griffis and his companions in the kidnaping plot by a representative of the American and said:

"The Legion has been trying for months, unofficially, to bring pressure to bear on the German government for the release of these men.

"We had to work unofficially for reasons of international diplomacy, but we have been hard at work to accomplish it."

of the draw by defeating Belgium, 20 to 2.

The match had a strong Canadian flavor, as four of the men of the British sextet, the two Carruthers in the forward positions and Pitblade and Sexton at defence are Canadians living in England. Furthermore, the only Belgian to score was Poplimont, the centre, who learned his hockey while homesteading in the Canadian Far West.

Great Britain defeated France, 46 to 4, in the curling competition, thereby winning the Olympic championship. Sweden was second and France third.

DEATH THREAT IN $300,000 LOVE SUIT

Sons Vowed to Kill Girl and Aged Suitor if They Wed, Says Lawyer

that Schwartz's adult sons had threatened to shoot Miss Gerber and their sixty-year-old father if he married her.

Schwartz's children were named as the chief cause for Schwartz's alleged failure to marry Miss Gerber after he had given her a $1,000 engagement ring. This ring and love letters alleged to have been written to the girl by Schwartz will figure as exhibits.

The jury is composed of seven farmers, two laborers, an electrician, a merchant and a shoemaker.

REJECTS WOMAN JUROR

The only woman juror called was challenged by former Attorney General William F. Pattangall, counsel for Schwartz, before she had time to leave her seat on the opposite side of the court room. She is Maude B. Plummer, housewife, of Portland.

G. O. Reed, shoemaker, of Freeport, was appointed jury foreman. The other members of the panel which will determine the biggest heart balm suit in the history of the city are:

Merrill H. Cloudman, farmer, Gorham; Whitman Holbrook, farmer, Brunswick; Algernon D. Whitcher, farmer, Pownal; Fred W. Peabbles, farmer, West Baldwin; Merle Thorpe, farmer, Raymond; Josiah W. Allen, farmer, Gray; N. E. Sawyer, merchant, Standish; Grovernor Edward, laborer, Harrison; Edgar K. Eveleth, laborer, New Gloucester; Joseph Mayberry, electrician, Windham, and Everett York, farmer, Otisfield.

COURTROOM THRONGED

Court officers had a hard time when court opened. Scores were refused admittance. They choked the corridor, hoping for a chance to squeeze in.

Veta Gerber, slender, brunette and pretty, sat at counsel table. She wore a simple, clinging King Tut gown of brownish tint, a small brown hat and a scarf of similar hue across her shoulders.

Her valuable squirrel fur coat was thrown carelessly over the back of her chair. Her parents and witnesses, thirteen in number, sat outside the railing.

David Schwartz, who began his career as a farmhand on a farm in Gorham when he came from Russia at the age of eighteen, and who is now rated as one of the wealthiest and most influential business men in Portland, sat, toying with a pencil a few yards away.

MADE MARRIAGE OFFER

"We will show," said State Senator Hinckley, "that Veta Gerber was conducting a millinery store on Congress street when David Schwartz promised to marry her in 1921. Schwartz went to his cousin, Louis Averback of this city, and arranged for him to act as matchmaker, according to Jewish custom.

"We will show that Schwartz questioned Averback about Miss Gerber's parents and asked Averback if he knew the daughters. Averback said there were three daughters, but that two were married and the unmarried one, Veta, had been divorced.

"She married a young man named Kronsberg August 15, 1916, and only lived with him a few months. A year later she was divorced on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment and went into the millinery business for herself.

KNEW DAILY WEALTH

"Averback, at Schwartz's request, visited the Gerber home on St. Lawrence street, Portland, and talked over the matter of marriage. Later he introduced Schwartz to the girl and her parents.

"Schwartz told Veta Gerber of his great success as a business men. He told her that he was a director in banks and owned valuable real estate. He said he was the only business man in Portland who could tell from day to day exactly how much he was worth. To illustrate, he told her that on the previous day he was worth $490,000.

"He told the girl it was true that he was much older, but that he would make up for that by his devotion and his ability to provide for her.

"We will show that Schwartz promised to buy a $40,000 home on State street to put Veta Gerber in as his wife, and promised her automobiles and every luxury. He told her religion and Jewish rituals meant nothing to him. He said he had read all the Bibles after coming to this country and didn't believe in any of them.

"Miss Gerber asked Mr. Schwartz how his sons would like the match, and he told her he was boss and that they would have to get over it.

"Schwartz told the girl to sell out her millinery business and she did at great financial loss. He asked her to marry him twice.

"The first proposal was in the Summer of 1921. Then suddenly Schwartz cooled off. He told Averback, the matchmaker, that he wished first to study another woman. She was a woman from Montreal. He said he liked her until she told Schwartz that he would have to give her $40,000 before he married her.

REJECTED MANY RIVALS

"That convinced him, he told Averback, that the woman from Montreal was more in love with his money than she was with him. Then Schwartz said his sister, who lives in New York, knew some fine girls and he went there to study them. Later Schwartz told Averback he didn't care for these girls as much as he did for Veta.

"We will show there was a lapse of nearly a year after Schwartz's proposal before Miss Gerber heard from him again. We will show that in all that time our client never once communicated with him by telephone or letter. Schwartz did all the pursuing.

"He sent Veta's mother flowers and pinned nice little notes to them. He told Veta's mother to call him 'David' and he'd call her 'mother.'

"In the Fall of 1923 Schwartz renewed his courtship and they were again engaged to marry."

Counsel said Schwartz set the date for the wedding for early in January, but when all was ready he suddenly called Miss Gerber and her mother into a conference.

There he told them, said the attorney, that his boys had threatened to shoot him and Veta if they married. He then asked Miss Gerber to return the $1,000 engagement ring.

Begging? Of Course Not; Just Touching His Friends

John Sullivan of No. 52 Dover street, South End, wasn't panhandling when arrested by Patrolman Cusick. He told Judge Murray in Municipal Court he was simply negotiating small loans from the friends he has known for half a century. The officer saw him stop fifteen persons and ask for money. The court also was presented with Sullivan's police record—a lengthy one.

"What's your occupation?" asked the court.

"Ice cutter, but I haven't been working for two weeks," was the reply.

Professional bear traders, who had been selling stocks freely on the expectation of purchasing them substantially lower in the expected February reaction, hastened to cover their commitments.

When the opening gong sounded, the Steel post was surrounded by scores of wildly shouting and gesticulating brokers. It was nearly ten minutes after trading began before an opening price could be decided upon.

The first block of 7,000 Steel at 108 was followed by a block of 1,500 at 105⅝. Upwards of 50,000 shares of Steel changed hands in the first half-hour.

Davison Chemical soared 6 points, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe 4⅝ and General Electric, American Can, Bethlehem, Republic and Gulf States Steels 2 to 3 points.

was fined $50 and given seven months.

"Many of the lower court judges have fallen down completely in charging juries in the Superior Court. They have a certain viewpoint. They were put in there to save expenses, but I don't think the people of Massachusetts want any of that cheap business.

"The situation in Suffolk County during the past month has been deplorable. It wouldn't be tolerated elsewhere. It is due to so-called reform. There hasn't been any reform, for real reform is connected with progress.

"We find in two of the great counties of the Commonwealth the powers of the district attorney's offices have either been usurped by the courts or voluntarily taken over. The constitutional convention of 1867 settled that question.

PREDICTS ELECTIONS.

"The Gastons and the Saltonstalls of the days of Benjamin Butler rose up and demanded their rights and brought about the abolition of the Court of Common Pleas.

"I never believed in the theory of electing judges before, but I have come to it. I say to you, that if you don't change this present system you will have election of judges in five years."

"We are not getting men of the type we used to get for judges. The present chief justice doesn't measure up to his predecessors and I say that without fear or favor.

"The lawyers of Suffolk County have lost their nerve. They should rise up and protest against this system, which results sometimes in only an hour a day being given to jury trials. This commitee should take a recess and go over to see the crowd waiting in the corridors of the Superior Court.

MUST WAKE UP.

"As regards the lower court judges sitting in the Superior Court, Judge Hayden has made a spectacle of himself. Another lower court judge said he was only waiting until his time was up before going back to his own court.

"Judge Perrin is unfit to sit on the Superior Court bench. He is biased, one-sided.

"The judges today haven't made their mark before being elevated to the bench, like the Saltonstalls and others, and I refer to the late district attorney of Middlesex County. They go into big law offices and dig over books and the first thing we know they are appointed to the bench. Massachusetts must wake up to the fact that she has got to have more judges."

ROBBERS GET $10,000 IN BANK IN TENN.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 30 (I.N.S.)—The Farmers' Bank of Jasper, Tenn., 20 miles from here, was robbed of $10,000 today by two bandits who followed the cashier into the building when he appeared to open the doors. They escaped in an automobile.

worth ten cents, in fact, they are a liability.

Moral: Be born a Pomeranian if you want to go through life comfortably, in this civilization.

WHEN human beings start out to kill, nothing stands in their way. Far up in the Arctic, two Eskimos were sentenced to be hanged for killing white men. One white man was going to marry an Eskimo girl, promised to an Eskimo. That started the fight.

The other white man killed was a member of the mounted police who had made arrests.

THE two Eskimos, Alik Omiak and Tetamangma, are being hanged for doing what is right according to their barbarous ideas. But it is necessary to set an example.

Therefore Sergeant Morse, of Canada's mounted police, is making a trip of two thousand miles carrying the death warrant. He will travel by ocean steamer, dog sled and canoes until he gets to the place and the two Eskimos are safely hanged.

ANYTHING to get a man hanged when once you start. If a hundred or a thousand Eskimos had been starving two thousand miles away, there wouldn't have been so much effort made to get food to them, as to deliver that death warrant in time for the hanging.

WE LIVE to be older in these days than we used to—with all respect to Methuselah who was an exception.

Daily, in New York, John Aikman Stewart goes out for a turn in the park, enjoying his rest. He has just retired as head of the United States Trust Company, but still attends business at 102. General Wingate, aged 84, an able working lawyer, used to take checks to be cashed to Mr. Stewart's bank seventy years ago when Wingate was an office boy.

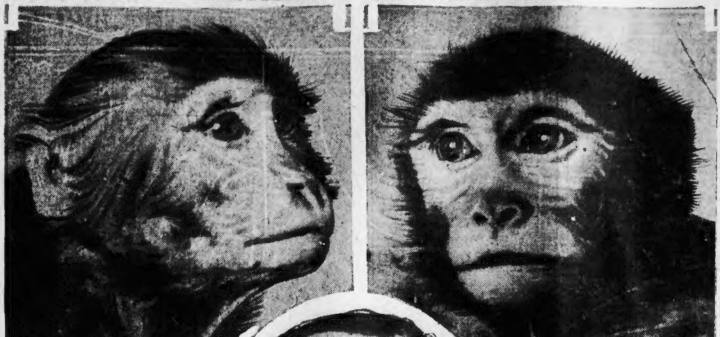
WE SOON shall live a great deal longer than we do now. Every other animal lives to at least ten times the age at which it reproduces its species. Why shouldn't man live to 150 as a minimum? He'll do it. Families will be smaller.

THE newspapers tell you that "the modern gay life, dancing, cigarettes, late hours" killed Miss Harding, an unfortunate young woman who committed suicide in Boston. The facts probably will never come out. If they did, they would undoubtedly show that "dancing, cigarettes and late hours" had little to do with the poor girl's tragedy.

When a young woman kills herself there is something more than a cigarette involved. Usually it is a man.

HARVARD DOCTORS WORKING TO CURE INFANTILE PARALYSIS

DISEASE SUBJECTS AND EXPERIMENTERS



DR. J. KAGAN

DR. M. J. ROSENAU

DR. P. EATON

DR. W. L. AYCOCK

At top are pictured the male and female of the Macaccus Rhesus or Indian monkey, individuals of which species are being used by the Harvard physicians in their efforts to identify and isolate the germ of that dreaded disease, infantile paralysis. Physicians shown in layout are the experimenters.

MONKEYS USED IN TESTS

Isolation of Dreaded Germ Hoped for by Biological Experts

Upon the Macacus Rhesus, or Indian monkey, depends the ultimate success or failure of the efforts of scientists of the Department of Preventive Medicine and Hygiene at Harvard University to stamp out the dread disease, infantile paralysis.

About two dozen of these monkeys have been imported from India and Borneo, mostly from India, for experimental purposes, and importations will continue indefinitely in the effort to learn more about the disease in order to prevent it.

"Although statements may have been made that the germ has been isolated," said Dr. Milton J. Rosenau head of the Department, "we believe that more work must be done to enable doctors to spot the disease."

KNOWLEDGE NEEDED

"There are two great points to be gained in the battle against this disease: First, to be able to know its cause; and second, to find out how it is transmitted. We have never been successfully able to manage this or any other disease without knowing its cause and how it spreads.

"We want to be able, on examining an infantile paralysis patient, to say that it is infantile paralysis, and not some other kind of paralysis.

"And, in this connection, although we use the term 'paralysis,' many cases of this disease occur without any paralysis. Health officers often refer to these as 'missed' cases, because they are not recognized as infantile paralysis cases, are not segregated and go about spreading the disease. We believe many epidemics are created in this way."

LIKE THE ZOO

One feels, upon entering the Harvard Biological Laboratory, as though he were transported to Franklin Park Zoo. The animals are comfortably confined in great wire cages which line the wall; the floor is concrete, and several long, broad windows flood the room with [illegible]ht, which must remind the monkeys of the good old days [illegible] home.

There they chase each other, scream, chatter, tear aimlessly up and down the sides of the screening—pausing only to reach out for a banana or carrot from their kindly keeper, "Steve."

"Monkeys are selected for experimental purposes," said Dr. Rosenau, "because they contract the disease and act through all its stages just as a human being does. These animals do not suffer through experimentation. They are given the very best of treatment—in fact, we treat them just as we would a sick child."

COUNTRY DISEASE

There are many curious phases of infantile paralysis, Dr. Rosenau stated; among them the fact that it hits the inhabitant of the country, rather than of the city. Also, that it makes no difference whether the person it strikes be rich or poor, strong or weak, clean or dirty; and, that as a rule, it occurs in the Summer. Neither is the disease confined altogether to children. Adults, as well, are susceptible.

"This disease," continued Dr. Rosenau, "is greatly on the increase. In 1916, the greatest epidemic the world has ever known occurred in the United States. There were 27,000 cases and 6,000 deaths; and the United States still has more cases of infantile paralysis than the rest of the world together. On account of its commonness here, we have a double incentive to wipe it out."

Dr. W. L. Aycock, directly in charge of the work of infantile paralysis experimentation under Dr. Rosenau, made several interesting statements relative to the monkeys and the manner in which experiments upon them are conducted.

JUNGLE BEASTS

"Almost without exception," he said, "these monkeys come from the jungle. Very few are born in captivity. The way they are captured is very interesting. Holes the size of the average monkey's paw are bored in cocoanuts. The cocoanuts are baited with grain, and this is the only trap necessary to catch the monkey.

"The monkey sees the cocoanut, puts his hand in, fills it with grain, and endeavors to draw it through the opening; refusing to release the grain.

"Of course it can't be done, and he can't very well climb trees with a cocoanut suspended from one paw; so the monkey catcher has little difficulty in making him a captive.

"The monkeys we have here are mostly young ones, and of both sexes. Age and sex in a monkey make no difference in the case of an experiment. They are alike susceptible to the disease, and although they contract it and act under it as do human beings, we believe the degree of susceptibility in a monkey is not as great as in a human being.

"The virus which we inject into these monkeys is procured from a portion of the spine or brain of a person who has died of infantile paralysis. This virus is preserved in glycerine, and we believe will keep indefinitely. We have some here over five years old, as fresh as ever. The containers holding this virus are placed in refrigerators, which also aids its preservation.

WORK PAINLESS

"When we inoculate the monkey, we first etherize it, although the inoculation takes only a few seconds and is practically painless. But we administer the ether both to relieve the animal of even a minute's pain, and also to keep it still. The injection may be made directly into the brain; on the nasal membrane; in the eyes, or sub-cutaneously. In all, the monkey is under ether only about a minute.

"Baboons have never before been experimented on in this respect, although monkeys have been for years. The reason for using another species is that we are trying to get a virus that will be virulent enough for one, and at the same time serve as a vaccine for another species, as in the case with rabies. It is already known that the virus which affects human beings is not at first virulent enough for monkeys; but when once adapted to them, it becomes more virulent. Therefore, we are trying to adapt a virus to different species of monkeys with a view to producing a vaccine."

LITTLE PARALYSIS

Dr. Aycock said that several of the monkeys had had infantile paralysis, but without much paralysis. Others, he said, had only "abortive" cases, or cases without paralysis; and that he had injected virus obtained from these monkeys into other monkeys, and produced in them in each case only the same form of disease—that form lacking paralysis.

No one knows how the germ is transmitted in the case of human beings. One theory is that it may be from the breath, saliva, water, insects, or a germ in the air.

In an experiment on monkeys, the doctor said sometimes a few animals are inoculated, placed in the cage with a number of healthy ones, and become ill; but, strange to say, the healthy ones never contract the disease from the sick ones.

VIRUS OBTAINED

He believes this may be due to the fact that certain insects which may carry the disease are excluded from the monkey cage. Also to the fact that monkeys may not be as susceptible to the disease as human beings, living, as they do, under different conditions.

Virus of infantile paralysis, the doctor stated, had been obtained from the nose and mouth of infantile paralysis patients, and even from noses and throats of monkeys.

The laboratory monkeys are fed on the best of food; rice, carrots, peanuts, bread and milk being their principal diet. After they have served their purpose of experimentation, they are killed by means of chloroform, and the spinal column or brain removed in order to extract the virus.

Associated with Drs. Rosenau and Aycock in this research work are: Drs. Eaton and Kagan. The Infantile Paralysis Commission is headed by Dr. Robert W. Lovett, chairman, who has made many distinguished contributions to the treatment of infantile paralysis patients.

TWO WOMEN BURN TO DEATH

Victims in Somerville and Salem Both Succumb When Flames Ignite Clothing

Accidental burns, received in their own homes, caused the deaths today of two Greater Boston women.

A lighted candle ignited the clothing of Margaret Shea, thirty years old, a cripple who lived at No. 22 Village street, Somerville. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Shea, and neighbors, hearing her screams, found her at the foot of the cellar stairs, her clothing ablaze. She died at Somerville Hospital.

Miss Charlotte Fairfield of Salem, received fatal burns when her dress caught fire from a gas heater in the kitchen of her home. She died at Salem Hospital.

Miss Fairfield beat out the fire with her hands and calmly walked to the telephone and asked a friend, Miss Edith Hayward, who lives near, to come to her assistance. The latter summoned a physician and Miss Fairfield was removed to the hospital.

Miss Fairfield attracted attention in 1903, when she waged a campaign against the price charged for coal, withdrawing from the Salem Coal Club and starting herself as an independent dealer, slashing prices.

AWAITED LOVE NOTES 'LIKE CAT ON HOT BRICKS'

Endearing Missives of New London Man Are Read in $25,000 Balm Suit

Worcester, Jan. 30.—Harry Simmons, New London dock builder, being sued for $25,000 by George Bouvier, formerly of Uxbridge, who charges the dock man with alienating the affections of his wife, Alice, wrote the woman in question letters.

On the witness stand he declared their friendship merely platonic, admitting to having written such platonic notes as:

"I shall be like a cat on hot bricks till I hear from you again."

"All the letters I get from you is one a week and I look for them as a child does for candy."

"I shall never forget you as long as I live."

"Alice, when you write seal the letter with sealing wax. What they don't know won't hurt them. Alice."

In April, 1921, when Mrs. Bouvier was in a hospital in White Plains, N. Y., where a daughter was born, Simmons wrote:

"To tell you the truth, little friend, I was worrying about you. Alice, I don't want to keep telling you what I think of you, but I must tell you that if anything happens to you I would grieve my life away." In this epistle he offered to send "a crib for baby."

Mrs. Bouvier lives in Whitinsville. Her husband is in the employ of the Southern Pacific Railroad.

LEGION'S HEAD ONCE AT KLAN MEETING

Commander Quinn Admits Signing for Membership, but Got Out Quick

John R. Quinn, national commander of the American Legion admitted today that he attended an organization mass meeting of the Ku Klux Klan in California. He said he had previously signed an application for membership.

This, he said, was the basis for the stories which connected him with the Klan and which led Congressman James A. Gallivan of Massachusetts to attack Commander Quinn publicly as a Klansman.

Commander Quinn explained that he left the Klan meeting while it was still in progress and never went back.

"The offices of the Klan were eventually raided and a membership list seized," he said. "Then a friend of mine, who was close to the district attorney, advised me to endeavor to have my name suppressed from the list.

"I chose to face it openly. The list was published. My name had been put in for membership, by the way, by an old friend, a disabled soldier, who kept pestering me until I consented. It was foolish of me.

HATES BIGOTRY.

"I am always fighting for the Jew and the Catholic. I am a Mason, but my father is a native of Ireland and my two sisters are devout Catholics. Bigotry and religious antagonism are abhorrent to me.

"At the organization meeting of the Klan, I soon heard things and saw things which showed me I was out of my element. I said to the man sitting next to me, 'Friend, this is no place for me.' And I left the hall immediately.

"My State department executive committee voted their confidence in me when my connection with the Klan became known. It contained two Jews and a Catholic."

GOLD KEY TO CITY.

Commander Quinn met Governor Cox and Mayor Curley today, visited Chelsea Naval Hospital, attended the Governor's luncheon at the Copley Plaza and tonight will address a huge 'get-together" banquet of the Legion at the Copley Plaza. Mayor Curley presented him a gold key to the city and the book, "One Hundred Years of Boston."

Congressman Gallivan has written to the committee, saying it is doubtful if he can be present.

BEATS THIEF IN HIS ROOM SENSELESS

Came the plunk of a ladder being placed against the side of the house, just under the bedroom window.

Desgrantes' snores ceased. Then the window was slowly raised and the No. 12 shoe of Edward William Hancock, a husky ex-marine, swung over the sill and dropped with a thud on the floor of the bedroom.

Desgrantes was wide awake, but he feigned sleep.

Hancock cast a look at the form on the bed and then went to work. He was rifling Desgrantes' trousers when Desgrantes jumped him. Ensued a battle.

A left banged into Desgrantes' eye. Desgrantes crossed with a right to the stomach that brought an "oof" from the ex-leatherneck. The battle wound up with the would-be burglar stretched out unconscious on the bed, and Desgrantes with both eyes blacked and a cut on his cheek, telephoning for the police.

When the cops arrived they found Hancock, who had come to, struggling with Desgrantes. In Abington Court Hancock was held for the Grand Jury under $3,000 bail. He is a New Yorker and was formerly attached to the naval magazine at Hingham.

SALE OF TECUMSEH MILLS IS APPROVED

Fall River, Jan. 30.—The sale of the Tecumseh mills to the Davol mills in accordance with the plan outlined to stockholders of the former corporation a week ago, was unanimously approved at a special meeting of the stockholders of the Tecumseh mills today.

Simon B. Chase, in answer to stockholders, said he was of the opinion that the cash dividend to be distributed to the Tecumseh shareholders would be approximately 100 per cent. The stockholders will also receive one and one-third shares of Davol mills for each share of their present holdings.

WYMAN GOT $2,500 OLD COLONY FEES

Alphonse A. Wyman, one of the defendants in the suit for $19,000 of the trustees of the Old Colony Foreign Exchange against a number of prominent Boston attorneys, was on the witness stand the greater part of the morning in United States District Court before Judge Lowell.

Wyman outlined the various services rendered by him to the Old Colony Trust Company, and admitted receiving a retainer fee of $500 when he first took the case and another fee of $2,000 a few weeks later.

140 CHILDREN FILE FROM SCHOOL ON FIRE

Willimantic, Jan. 30.—One hundred and forty children, responding to the fire drill alarm, were marched out of the Windham street school building in orderly fashion today, just before fire practically destroyed the schoolhouse, with a loss of $50,000. Miss Anie Buchanan, a teacher, discovered the fire after the children had come in from recess. She rang the fire drill bell and the children emerged from the building before many of them knew that it was a fire.

THREAT BY UNIONS MAY END STRIKE

Sprigfield, Jan. 30.—A move made by the Allied Building Trades Council, the carpenters and bricklayers, to aid striking electricians by calling off union workers on jobs with non-union men, resulted today in a conference in conciliatory mood between the building employers' association and the employing electricians. It was believed likely it would result in settlement of the electricians' wage strike, which began January 1.

WANTS 100 MORE TO HANDLE PATENTS

Washington, Jan. 30.—Increase in the number of employes to handle patent applications has so increased the facilities of the Patent Office as to make working conditions deplorable, Secretary Work said in a report to Congress today. He said 100 additional examiners are needed. The Patent Office is making a gain of 1,000 cases a month.

ASKS FOR $200 TO BURY WAR VETERAN

Washington, Jan. 30 (I.N.S.).—A bill to increase from $100 to $200 the allowance for burial of World War veterans was filed in the House today by Congressman Rogers of Massachusetts, with the approval of American Legion, Secretary of War John W. Weeks and General Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans' Bureau.

ANOTHER GIVES UP IN BOND THEFT CASE

Harry Maniff of Revere Surrenders and Is Held in $5,000 for Hearing

The second member of the gang implicated in the disposal of the loot from the $1,500,000 mail robbery in Los Angeles in 1921, surrendered today to the Federal authorities.

Bert R. Chapman.

He is Harry Maiff of No. 1719 North Shore road, Revere, who already has served eighteen months in the House of Correction with the sale of the bonds stolen in the big robbery.

Bert R. Chapman, alias Bert Kaplan, No. 104 Chelsea street, gave himself up yesterday to the Federal authorities.

Both Maiff and Chapman were indicted last year by the Federal Grand Jury in Los Angeles, and since that time government operatives have been busy weaving the net of evidence against both men.

The men are charged with aiding in disposing of stolen property of the United States government. Another arrest may be made here in connection with the case within the next few days.

When Maniff appeared at the Federal Building he was accompanied by his attorney, James H. Vahey. Maniff was taken at once before United States Commissioner Hayes and his bail was fixed at $5,000, which he furnished and was then released for a hearing on February 5.

The arrest of the two men is another chapter in one of the most daring coups ever executed by a robber band.

In broad daylight a mail train was flagged in Los Angeles, after members of the robber gang overpowered a towerman and took charge of the signal station. Bandits, in motor cars, entered a car containing registered mail and made away with pouches containing bonds and stocks valued at more than $1,500,000.

Some months later half a million dollars' worth of these bonds appeared in Boston. They were put up as colateral for loans with Kidder, Peabody & Co., Hornblower & Weeks and the defunct R. L. Day & Co., these firms in turn putting them in the hands of the Old Colony Trust Company and the First and Second National Banks as collateral.

These bonds were recovered by Federal agents after the bond houses had loaned $300,000 on them. The banks and bond dealers have lost this $300,000, as the government will return the securities to their rightful owners.

STUDENT IS FOUND SLAIN IN CREEK

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 30 (I.N.S.)—The body of John A. Mazzola, twenty-five, dental student at Ohio Dental College, was found half submerged in Duck Creek, in Norwood, today. BAKER TO LOSE HIS P. M. JOB

Mansfield, Bagley, Graves and Hammond Are After Postmastership

Washington, Jan. 30.—Postmaster Roland Baker of Boston will lose his post as soon as his term expires on March 9, according to present indications.

A lively fight for his job is in progress. President Coolidge is being besieged to give the place to a number of Boston Republicans, including former Postmaster Edward C. Mansfield, former Senator Edward C. R. Bagley of the State Penal Institutions Department, Edward Graves, a former surveyor of the port, and Charles L. Hammond, now superintendent of mails.

It is expected the new postmaster will be picked by Senator Lodge and Congressman Tinkham of Boston and Dallinger of Cambridge. Tague and Gallivan, the Democrats, will look on.

The postmaster will be selected from a group of three who will head the civil service examinations.

Baker has been under fire ever since he became postmaster. The Democrats never wanted him because they said he was a Republican and the Republicans never wanted him because they said he talked, dreamed and thought only of Woodrow Wilson.

SENATE BLOCKS COOLIDGE IN OIL PROBE

Refuses to O. K. $100,000 Fund Until the President Sends in His Selections

He did not announce the purpose of his return to Washington.

At the House end of the Capitol the naval committee began a hearing on the disposition made of royalty oils from the Doheny and Sinclair leases, with Navy Department officials as witnesses.

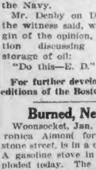
A. B. Fall

Senator Willis

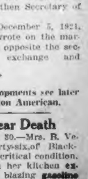
Besides the Walsh annulment resolution, passage of which is expected today, the Senate has on its waiting list resolutions asking for removal of Secretary Denby and Attorney General Daugherty and one proposing to reassert title to oil land in California held by Standard Oil.

LATIMER TESTIFIES.

Read Admiral Latimer, judge advocate general of the navy, told the House naval committee today that in December, 1921, he informed Secretary Denby it would be legal to enter into a contract with the Doheny interests for the construction of tankage at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, as a part of their lease to the California naval oil reserve.



Atty.-Gen. Daugherty



Asst. Sec. Roosevelt.

The admiral said he based his opinion on authority granted the department by Congress in June, 1920, to exchange oil and provide stoppage facilities. This authority, it was brought out by committee members, was granted at the request of Josephus Daniels, then Secretary of the Navy.

Mr. Denby on December 5, 1921, the witness said, wrote on the margin of the opinion, opposite the section discussing exchange and storage of oil:

"Do this—E. D."

Burned, Near Death

Woonsocket, Jan. 30.—Mrs. B. Veronica Aimon, forty-six, of Blackstone street, is in a critical condition. A gasoline stove in her kitchen exploded today. The blazing gasoline set fire to her clothing and she was burned from head to foot. Hospital authorities do not expect her to recover.

CHORUS MEN HELD AS THIEVES MAY REVEAL GEM ROBBER GANG

WIFE OF ONE ARRESTED IN NEW YORK

Confesses to $80,000 Theft While Posing as Maid; Two Held Here for Brighton Job

They posed as chorus men. Danced by night, worked by day, the work being, police say, astounding robberies by the wholesale.

One has a wife. She posed as a hotel maid. She stole, too, today confessing in New York to the Atlantic City hotel theft of $80,000 worth of jewels from a guest.

Her husband, Robert Golden, was arraigned in Brighton Court today, charged with robbing Mrs. Ethel Kravit of No. 78 Kilsyth road, Brighton, of jewels and clothing worth $2,400.

BOTH HELD

"We are chorus men, from New York," they said.

Golden was held for the grand jury in $10,000 bail; Brooks in $5,000.

Police believe they will uncover an organized gang of chorus men burglars, all having women accomplices.

Mrs. Golden, who poses as a "Miss," was arrested in her apartment in Washington Heights, New York, Monday night. The arrest followed the theft of $50,000 in jewels from Mrs. Margaret C. Throop at the Hotel Ambassador. The maid lated confessed to participation in the theft of $80,000 in gems from a guest at the Ambassador Hotel, Atlantic City. Detectives were immediately sent to various cities on clews in other hotel robberies.

MAID ARRAIGNED

The robbery at the Hotel Ambassador was perpetrated, it is alleged, while Mrs. Throop was in the reception room of her suite with her social secretary. The maid, going under the name of Miss Hall, had started to work that day.

Mrs. Throop had left a trunk open and inside it were her jewels in an ivory case. The maid disappeared from the room while Mrs. Throop was still engaged. The next day she found the case with its $50,000 jewels missing. But in a package that had been alongside the case was a string of beads, valued at $30,000, which were left intact.

Later developments showed that Miss Golden had surreptitiously left the hotel soon after the robbery. In a room adjoining Mrs. Throop's suite they found her toque hat and maid's uniform. In their stead she donned a hat and coat belonging to another guest of the hotel.

IN GUEST'S CLOTHES

Thus garbed, the maid, it is alleged, assuming an air of comfortable assurance, hurried to the elevator and passed to the street through the hotel lobby under the eyes of house detectives.

And here is where a bit of the cleverest detective work ever done at Mulberry street comes into the tale. Inspector Coughlin's men needed clues. They had the hat and they had the signature of Miss Golden upon the hotel employes' registry. They started to work.

Lieutenant Frazer and Detective Arnold went to the manufacturers of the hat. Eventually they learned that a shop on West 125th street had sold a toque hat exactly like the one worn by Miss Golden. In their possession they had a circular issued by the Atlantic City police in 1921, after the Ambassador Hotel robbery there.

The shopkeeper on 125th street at once recognized a photograph upon the circular—one of a woman in bathing pose as Miss Golden. She had bought the hat from him and there was no mistaking in his mind that Miss Golden and thew oman in the bathing attire were the same.

A BATHING BEAUTY

The bathing girl was known, according to the Atlantic City police description, under the names of Helen Golden, Margaret Miller, May Sheen, Lillian Kelly, Annie Peterson and Helen Graham.

The Atlantic City robbery, it developed, was achieved by Miss Golden through an accomplice, going under the name of Joseph Anderson. To Miss Golden had been entrusted a set of keys that would fit every suite on the floor upon which the wealthy Mr. Abrams, victim of the robbery, had his rooms.

The bathing season was on. The maid, attired in her neatly-fitting bathing suit, went into the surf. She never reappeared at the hotel, and it was supposed that she was drowned.

SECRETARY L.A. HANSON

MASSACHUSETTS ASSOCIATION GREETED BY MAYOR

Congressman Charles L. Underhill told the association "what is the matter with Congress." Mayor Curley presented the key to the city to Fred Warren, president of the association. James W. Eadie, Jr., spoke on the "Retailer of Tomorrow." Among others prominent at the meeting and election were William E. Koch and Secretary L. A. Hansen.

LEGION CALLS FOR NEW PLAN OF PEACE

Would Draft All Man-Power and Wealth; Ask Public to Back Idea

A new peace plan will be drafted at a mass meeting of citizens, called by the American Legion for Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Mechanics building.

An effort will be made to have the mass meeting endorse a resolution calling on Congress to enact a law that would automatically draft and conscript every man, woman, boy and girl in case of war or national emergency. It is the plan to have capital as well as labor included in this draft.

Mayor Curley

Major General Edwards commander of the State Department of the American Legion, will preside.

One of the objects of the meeting is to make clear to the public the position of the American Legion on adjusted compensation—or "bonus," as it is more commonly known.

Senator Walsh.

Major-General Edwards

Other speakers at the meeting will be Mayor Curley, Senator David I. Walsh, Past National Commander Hanford MacNider of the Legion, and Aaron Sapiro, head of the Legion's legislative committee in Washington.

The plan to conscript all man-power and all wealth as men of the trenches were drafted in the World War is believed to be the most feasible method for assuring lasting peace.

SENATE SCORED IN SPEECH BY UNDERHILL

Somerville Congressman Tells Retailers the Constitutional Amendments Are All Wrong

Declaring not one of the amendments to the United States Constitution from the fifteenth to the last one, the nineteenth, should ever have been adopted, Congressman Charles L. Underhill, at the annual convention of the Massachusetts Retail Merchants' Association, denounced so-called "progressives" in politics and called upon the business men to help stamp them out.

Congressman Underhill characterized the so-called progressives or radicals as "borers from within" who are tearing at the very heart of the government. He declared that in reality they are preaching antagonism to law and order and present a serious danger.

Among the other speakers were Mayor Curley, who welcomed the retail merchants to Boston and presented the key to the city to Charles C. Ferris, the president, who was going out of office.

The following officers were elected for a year: President, Fred Warren, treasurer of Nichols & Frost, Fitchburg; second vice president, C. E. Brett, president Timothy Smith Co., Roxbury; third vice president, A. A. Mills, president R. A. McWhirr Co., Fall River; secretary, L. A. Hansen.

Directors for period ending January 1, 1926: Guy Mailman, treasurer Mailman & Hanlon Co., Brockton; M. J. Doran, president M. J. Doran Co., Fall River; R. B. Nickerson manager A. G. Spalding & Bro., Boston; Arthur Madison, director Chandler & Co., Inc., Boston; G. L. Orton, treasurer Goodnow-Pearson-Orton Co., Athol; L. B. Lewis, president F. N. Joslin Co., Malden; N. C. Johnson, treasurer, Mitchell & Co., Haverhill.

REBELS URGING MEXICANS TO ATTACK U. S.

Huerta Leaders Seek to Stir Up Trouble Because of Arms Sold Federals

Mexico City, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Revolutionary forces around Vera Cruz are preparing to inaugurate guerilla warfare following the crushing defeats at Llano Grande, Boca del Monte and Esperanza, according to wireless messages sent to General Diegues in Jalisco by General de la Huerta, revolt leader, which were intercepted and given out by the War Department.

The messages carry the intimation that anti-government propaganda which the De la Huertaistas plan to inaugurate will accuse President Obregon in violent terms of giving tacit encouragement to attacks upon Americans on the ground that the United States is interfering with Mexican affairs with the ultimate purpose of domination.

In Mexico City dodgers making similar charges in huge type have been secretly printed and distributed.

Fighting is proceeding in the vicinity of Poncitlan, upon the Jalisco front, where the vanguard under General Amaro is engaging the rear guard of the rebels under General Alvaro. Poncitlan, the point of the federal advance, has been reached. The bridge over the Zula River was burned during the rebel retreat. General Escobar's columns have reached Acambaro, and are pursuing the enemy.

CROWELL WINS POINT IN WAR FRAUD CASE

Court Sustains Demurrers on Indictments; Two Boston Men Involved

Washington, Jan. 30. — The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia today sustained demurrers of Benedict Crowell, former Assistant Secretary of War, and six others indicted with him in cases growing out of the building of wartime cantonments.

A new indictment will have to be drawn or the cases lapse.

Others indicted and included in the demurrer, which was sustained, were William A. Starrett, New York; Morton C. Tuttle, Boston; Clemens W. Lundoff, Cleveland; Clair Fister of Canada; John McGibbons, Baltimore, and James A. Mears, Boston.

Benedict Crowell

The defendants were associated with the Council of National Defence, and were charged with conspiracy to maladminister laws and regulations, and to control the giving of contracts to friends, associates and clients under the "cost plus" system. All were prominent in the construction industry.

Attorney-General Daugherty initiated the proceedings as a part of the government's prosecution of wartime construction cases.

$3,500 a Week and 25 Janitors to Warm Wellesley Girls

It costs $3,500 a week to keep the fair students at Wellesley comfortable!

And the job of seeing that the girls' rooms are warm—that there is an adequate supply of ice on hand for their tea—that the floor of the ball room in Alumni Hall is waxed to perfection—all these and a thousand other tasks devolve on one lone man.

He is Wendell K. Kayser, who has the title of efficiency expert.

Incidentally, Mr. Kayser is major-domo of an army composed of forty repairmen, thirty gardeners, twenty-five janitors, an engineer and an assistant engineer.

SHOT BY PAIR WHO WANTED LIQUOR

Worcester Man Wounded in Shotgun Duel; Returns Fire, but Misses

Worcester, Jan. 30.—George W. Robinson got the worst of a shotgun duel with two colored visitors to his gasoline filling station on River road. He fired three times at the negroes, but they escaped unhurt, while he was wounded in both legs.

Robinson told the police the men, alleged to be Jack Ward, twenty-nine, and James Corliss, thirty-four, of Oak street demanded liquor and became ugly when it was refused. They then demanded payment of a debt, which Robinson paid, and then ordered them off the premises. He was at his furnace a few minutes later, he said, when the two men opened fire on him with shotguns, wounding him. He returned fire with his own gun, but was too late.

Mothers You Can Prevent Children From Taking Cold

Next Time They Come in Wet and "Sniffling" Rub This Vapor Salve Over Throat and Chest

When children come in from play with feet wet, noses blue and hands like lumps of ice, you feel sure that they are "in for a cold."

But the next time try Vicks. At bedtime rub this vaporizing salve well in over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth.

The body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Juniper Tar, etc.—in the form of vapors, and these vapors go directly to the air passages, stimulating the mucous membrane to repel germ attacks.

At the same time Vicks increases the circulation of the blood throughout the chest region, thus helping to prevent any congestion developing.

If applied in time, Vicks will prevent many colds from getting a start and its use doesn't disturb the child's digestion as constant internal dosing is so apt to do.

Mrs. Bowditch to Dance in Junior League Show Next Week, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

ONE of society's prettiest and busiest matrons is Mrs. Manfred Bowditch of Beacon street.

She is slight, of the fragile blonde type, and ever since her pinafore days she's been tremendously keen about dancing. Quite as graceful as keen about it.

So it doesn't seem surprising to find her among the belles who will trip the light fantastic when the curtain rolls up on "Mlle. Modiste," the Junior League show coming to the Copley Theatre on Monday evening.

Mrs. Bowditch was formerly Miss Margaret Pearmain and is at present living with her two children at the Beacon street home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sumner B. Pearmain.

Decidedly romantic was the marriage of dainty Margaret Pearmain to Manfred Bowditch. Both were then in college, she at Radcliffe and he at Harvard. Their engagement was announced one bright June day, Harvard class day in fact it was. And everyone, of course, thought that they would have a wedding all according to the social Hoyle. Instead of that, the couple decided to have a simple, quiet wedding, all by themselves. Which they did, both of them returning to their studies following the marriage, which took place in Framingham.

SPEAKING of "Mlle. Modiste," Miss Miriam Shepard will play the role of "Mrs. Hiram Bent," who is "bent" on very particular purposes.

Miss Miriam Shepard

Miss Miriam Shepard is the daughter of Mrs. Willis S. Shepard of Chestnut street. She is a prominent member of the Vincent Club and has taken part in a number of the club's presentations.

DOWN North Shore way, members of the year-round colony made the very most of the very brief cold spell.

Skates were brought out and everyone "cut up"—on the ice. The pond in front of the Myopia Hunt Club attracted many, small though it is.

The other day popular Bayard Tuckerman played luncheon host at "Savin Farm" to the fifteen members of the 1911 Dining Club, the party later going on to the club.

MR. AND MRS. VALENTINE HOLLINGSWORTH are among the subscribers during the two weeks' stay of the Chicago Opera company. A throng of fashionables attended the opening performance on Monday night, and there is every indication that society will continue to wend its way to the Opera House during the remainder of the Western company's stay.

COUNT BABBANS ACQUITTED OF BIGAMY

Aristocrat, Born in San Francisco, Rebuked by Judge, but Jury Is Indulgent

Chalon-Sur-Saone, France, Jan. 30.—The Assize Court has acquitted Count Ferdinand de Jouffroy Babbans, former attache at the French embassy in Berlin, of a charge of bigamy.

Count Babbans is a member of one of the most aristocratic families of France. He is a descendant of Marquis Jouffroy aBbbans, who first applied steam to navigation.

The count was born in San Francisco while his father was French consul there. At the trial it was brought out that he had married an English woman named Charlotte Grellin in Folkstone, England, in 1914. In 1919 he wedded a French heiress, Marie de Saint Innocent, although the first marriage was not dissolved by the court at Dijon until 1922.

The count contended that the first wedding was only a joke and that no one ever considered it valid since the banns were not published in France. The judge rebuked the defendant, asserting that he had played with the law and was trebly guilty, on account of birth, education and his association with the diplomatic service.

However, the jury was more indulgent and acquitted Count Barbans after five minutes' deliberation.

5 BANKING GROUPS AFTER JAP LOAN

New York, Jan. 30.—Five banking groups are reported competing for the forthcoming Japanese loan, with negotiations hinging largely on the question of a guarantee by the Japanese government. Otherwise terms are said to have been agreed upon in conference between bankers and representatives of the Japanese government, who recently arrived in this country. Frank A. Vanderlip, former head of the National City Bank, is understood to be taking part in the negotiations.

HARRIMAN, SON OF BANKER, DIVORCED

Accused of Misconduct; Wife in "Perfect Match" Is Given Children

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 30.—Oliver Carley Harriman, son of Oliver Harriman, millionaire New York banker, and his beautiful wife, who was Loise Bisbee, are divorced.

It became known today that Mrs. Harriman had been granted a decree several weeks ago at Mount Vernon and awarded the custody of two children. She charged her wealthy young husband with misconduct. An unnamed young woman was mentioned as corespondent.

O. C. Harriman

Mrs. Harriman

The Harrimans were married in 1915. The wedding was a social function in the Four Hundred and was pronounced a "perfect match."

Mrs. Harriman is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Bisbee, "brought out" in society. Harriman left Princeton just before the marriage and entered the banking business. He is the eldest of three sons. He is the nephew of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt.

The romance began when young Harriman and Miss Bisbee met in the country, the country places of their families adjoining. They met almost daily in the Summer.

CAMBRIDGE MAN IS KILLED BY AUTO

Michael Carpenter, sixty-five years old, of 269 Brookline street, Cambridge, was instantly killed today when struck by an automobile truck near his home. Truck was driven by John F. Wallen of 1299 Commonwealth avenue, Allston. He was arraigned in Cambridge court on a charge of manslaughter and held for trial on Feb. 8.

Tries to Swallow Ten Knives! Yes, It Can't Be Done

Chicago, Jan. 30 (I.N.S.)—Jacob Slenke was in a serious condition in a hospital here today because he believed he could be a sword swallower. He got the idea from seeing a vaudeville performer swallow swords without apparent evil effect. He bought ten butcher knives and essayed to swallow them one by one. One was enough. It stuck.

"I'll bet there's a trick to it," Slenke wrote on a pad of paper for one of the hospital nurses today.

CHIEF HURLEY, PORTSMOUTH, IS DEAD

End Comes Suddenly to Police Head Who Gained Fame as a Diver

Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 30.—Michael Hurley, chief of police since 1913, died suddenly today of heart disease.

He was fifty-eight years old.

He arose in his home, 20 Union street, dressed and was about to leave the house when he collapsed. He died within an hour.

He was one of the best known police officials in New England and was prominent as an [illegible].

He is survived by two sons at Holy Cross College, [illegible] a senior in Portsmouth High School. His wife died some years ago.

Years ago "Akus" Hurley, as he was known to his intimates, was a diver. His fame as such was so great that since becoming a member of the police force in 1895 he was frequently called upon to render aid in navigation mishaps or harbor tragedies.

One of his most famous exploits was placing dynamite beneath Gangway Rock, Portsmouth Harbor, which for years had been a menace to harbor navigation. It stood an ominous threat opposite the Navy Yard.

Hurley bested it, and blew it to smithereens with an explosive. Another of his feats was the recovery of the bodies of fourteen young girls drowned off the Isles of Shoals in 1904, when a pleasure craft overturned. All were in seventy-five feet of water.

Hurley rose from a patrolman to chief in seven years.

MOTHER HIKES 1000 MILES TO SICK SON

"Somewhere in Detroit" Her Goal, She Eventually Reaches Bedside

Detroit, Mich, Jan. 30.—Mrs. Mary Hansen watches at the bedside of her son, Joseph, here today, after walking more than 1,000 miles from Sioux Falls, S. D., to take care of him.

Three weeks ago Mrs. Hansen received word that her son was ill "somewhere in Detroit." She started out on foot to come to this city, and arrived with the aid of motorists along the way. Mrs. Hansen's eldest son was a lieutenant in the World War and was killed in the Argonne Forest. American Legion posts and auxiliaries for this reason, she said, helped her along the way.

This is the second trip Mrs. Hansen has made on foot for her son, Joseph. Some time ago she walked from Montana to Washington to appeal to the late President Harding in behalf of the young man when he was a prisoner at Leavenworth, Kan., federal prison. She says she was a former resident of Marion, O., and knew the late President when he was learning the printing trade.

"Walking wasn't so bad," she said, commenting on her trip here. "I met lots of nice girls hiking and, wherever I went, American Legion auxiliaries helped. Welfare boards are all right but, after all, you have to do things for yourself in this world."

As soon as Hansen is well enough he and his mother will return to Sioux Falls.

ACCUSED OFFICIAL'S ACCOUNTS SQUARE

Hardwick, Jan. 30.—Investigation of the accounts of Timothy J. Walsh, tax collector, by an agent from the State department, resulted in the collector being given a clean bill of health today. He had technically violated the law, but "not with criminal intent." A report made by Edward H. Fenton, State examiner, reads:

"On December 31, 1923, there was due from the collector's office $6,058.26, although the collector's accounts showed a balance of only $4,248.34, leaving a discrepancy of $1,809.92."

The report states, however, that this discrepancy and all recorded collections to date were paid on January 11, 1924.

BROTHER KILLED IN POOR PLANE, SAYS T. R., JR.

Roosevelt Flays the Pacifists and Calls Their Arguments "Just Plain Flap-Doodle"

New York, Jan. 30.—Quentin Roosevelt died in the war because the airplane in which he crashed to death was a poor one and, therefore, his death was due to unpreparedness, Theodore Roosevelt, his brother, said before the Kansas Society. He added:

"I have led green troops to the front line and have led seasoned men, and I know the difference was in the casualties."

Mr. Roosevelt said the dactrines of pacifists and preachers of disarmament made him so mad he could "jump up and down and scream."

"One argument put forward by the pacifists is that having a large army and navy induces other nations to attack you," he said. "That's just flap-doodle. The six-footer with a chest like a barrel and big fists coming down the street—he's not the fellow that is picked on for a fight, is he?"

Washington—Because of the absence of Senator Reed of Missouri, the Senate committee investigating the Bok peace award held no session today. It is planned to resume hearings tomorrow.

Little Boys Scorn Some Hearts, But Not These

SO MANY OF MY READERS have asked for cookie recipes that I am giving you all one of the most delicious.

ORANGE HEARTS

3 tablespoons butter	Grated rind 1 orange
2-3 cup sugar	Few grains salt
Juice 1 orange	1 3-4 cups flour

Put butter and grated rind in bowl and work until creamy, using a wooden spoon. Add sugar gradually, continuing the beating; then add salt and orange juice and flour, a little at a time. Toss on a floured board, pat, and roll to one-eighth inch in thickness, shape with heart cutter, first dipped in flour, put on a sheet covered with a buttered paper, and bake in a moderate oven.

THESE WOULD BE especially nice for a Valentine party. Or an afternoon tea. You see, they are economical, because no egg is needed and very little sugar. Oranges are cheap now, too.

OTHER HEARTS NAMED FOR St. Valentine's are a little fussier, but they'll make your mouth water. There's marmalade in them, and candied orange peel. Very attractive looking.

MOST OF THE CHILDREN we know like peanut cookies. A pint of peanuts in shells is enough. Shell, and chop. This recipe calls for only one-fourth of a cup of sugar. Cut with a round cutter. Scatter finely chopped peanuts over the top.

BECAUSE OF ITS COLOR rasberry ice is nice for a holiday dessert. If this recipe is followed, the ice retains the natural color of the fruit.

THEN THERE IS AN ICEBERG that can be colored green. You can make it more delectable by sprinkling chopped nuts over each glassful.

A EUROPEAN SORBET we like is made with peaches and orange juice. As pretty as your Easter bonnet.

Answer to Mrs. C. W.—Yes, you can make washable toys for baby. Use table oilcloth. It comes in all colors.

Answer to J. B.—Yes, we are going to run a column on new silk dress goods. Low prices. Look for it next week.

PRISCILLA PRICE.

GIRLS DRIVEN TO DESPERATION IN LONG SEARCH FOR WORK

TWO SPEND $100 IN VAIN CHASE

"Ain't it awful?"

It's the cry of the jobless woman. The scrub woman, the factory girl, the department store worker, turned down again and again, utter the three words, "Ain't it awful?"

That exclamation—and that alone—seems to express the tragedy of their hopeless search.

The following story is the second in a series describing the search of a girl for a job in Greater Boston.

The temperature had dropped on Tuesday. It was a bitter morning to tramp from place to place in search of a job. The long walk down Sidney street to the Educator Krackerland was like a stroll on a Siberian waste. My ears, my toes, my face were nearly frozen. Hope of getting work partly comforted me for the buffeting from the wind.

I went in the entrance marked "Office" and a pretty telephone operator asked me what I wanted.

"Do you hire inexperienced girls?"

A RAY OF HOPE

"Oh, yes," she spoke in a matter of course way. "Come in Monday morning and we'll be hiring some."

She had a good job. I had none. I felt I was pitied slightly.

From there to a baking company, from the baking company to a biscuit manufacturer, I tried my luck. The same story greeted me everywhere.

"We're not using any girls now."

Some of the women who told me that were sympathetic. It helps some that tiny show of sympathy.

I tried a candy factory nearby. "We don't hire any girls after the Christmas season."

An ice cream plant told me to come back tomorrow.

"I have plenty of girls today," a pleasant faced woman said, "but somebody may not show up tomorrow. If you don't find anything, come back in the morning."

I walked up to Central square and scanned the possibilities. There were three stores of the "ten cent" variety. I went in each one and in each one was informed that they didn't need anyone.

"We're filled up."

TRIES THE "SWEET SMILE."

A small department store had big signs in the window advertising a sale. That looked promising. I went in and asked for the person who hires girls. The young man whom I addressed answered: "I do the hiring."

"Do you need anyone now?"

He smiled. "No, we don't. But we may need someone next week."

"Do you hire inexperienced girls?" I tried to look charming, thinking he might be influenced.

He smiled again. "Yes. We hire inexperienced girls. What is your name and address? Maybe I can let you know."

I gave him a name and address. Asking for your name and address is a stall—a polite way of showing you the door.

In two days I had been to eighteen places to ask for work, and this was the first one that even asked me my name. "Next week," was better "Nothing at all," but that wasn't exactly encouraging.

Work in a big market was better than no work. I ventured into one.

"I have more girls now than I really need," the manager told me.

FRIENDS IN MISERY.

One more biscuit company where they weren't hiring any girls decided me. I went back to the employment agency on Pearl street.

The benches weren't quite as full as yesterday. It was getting on toward afternoon and the women don't wait if nothing turns up in the morning. I was sitting beside two girls who looked downcast. They were well-dressed in so far as they had on "Spring" hats, which was more than I had.

"I've been looking two days and couldn't find a thing," I told them.

"You're going to look a lot longer than two days, dearie, unless you're different from the rest of us," one of them assured me.

"We've spent one hundred dollars in Lowell looking for a job and we didn't get none. We were there three weeks and they sent us from one place to another, and us having to pay our own carfares all the time. We'd go where they told us to and they'd send us back where we came from. It's fierce," she finished.

"Ain't it awful?" the other girl sighed.

CRY OF THE NEEDY.

That was the second time I'd heard that question. It became significant to me. It was the cry of the woman out of work. The great army of jobless women, who search day after day, week after week, and hear dozens of times a day the death knell of their hopes as some one tells them, "We aren't hiring any women."

Disheartened, but not yet resigned, they utter that phrase, "Ain't it awful?" and the whole tragedy of their situation is breathed into the three words.

I sat there with the two girls who had staked a hundred dollars on jobs and lost, and I knew they were desperate. We waited, hoping that something would turn up that would mean a job in the morning.

Prisoners Rebel at Building Lethal Death Chamber

Carson City, Nev., Jan. 30.—Twelve prisoners at the State penitentiary here are in solitary confinement because they have refused to work on the construction of a lethal chamber in which Gee Jon, a Chinese, is to be asphyxiated Feb. 8.

The prisoners refused to be parties to the experiment in capital punishment, which was provided under a recently enacted State law, and the legality of which has been upheld by State and Federal courts.

doctor. I want you to look me over."

"Have you noticed any particular symptoms?"

"No, but having been exposed of late I want to make sure that I am physically O. K."

"Let me take a look at you. Get up on the table," Dr. Rifkin commanded. Jones did so.

WELL MAN "ILL"

After a series of tests Dr. Rifkin said to "Jones:

"I find that you are not all right. You have a few swollen glands and from all indications you are diseased. On your next visit I will examine you further. I will tell you more about it then."

Dr. Rifkin mixed a red liquid wash and gave "Jones" a treatment for his "disease." Bandages were also placed by the physician. He produced a box of small pills with instructions to take one after each meal.

"This will clean the bladder out," he said. "They will also help your kidneys."

At the Boston City Hospital, physicians found nothing wrong with "Jones'" kidney, bladder or any other organ.

"How often must I come here, doctor, and how much will you charge?" the investigator asked.

Dr. Rifkin replied "You will have to come every day for the first week. I don't charge by the visit, as you never can tell how long it will take to cure you. So I will charge you $50 for the entire case."

SHYS AT RECEIPT

"Jones," said in answer to this: "I am pretty 'short,' doctor."

"When my patients can't pay cash I have them pay me $10 a week until the full amount is paid. Will that suit you?" the doctor explained.

"Jones" replied: "All I have with me is $3 doctor.

"You can pay that now and $7 on your next visit."

Jones paid the three dollars and secured a receipt on the back of a card.

Dr. Rifkin demurred at giving a receipt for the three dollars, but finally agreed.

So much for the investigators.

A staff reporter of the Boston American obtained the following story from young Dr. Rifkin prior to the visits of the investigators:

"I came to this country when I was but 14 years of age. During the day I worked, and at night I attended the evening high schools. My father's money was all spent on me. You know because of that I had to keep going.

DROPPED AT COLLEGE

"Lately I have often thought I would like to start over again. I think Harvard is great. I would like to go through Harvard just to satisfy the public.

"I know of several students who 'flunked' at Tufts. They had to go to Middlesex in Cambridge. There was no other place for them. In my wanderings from one medical school to another I have been all over the country.

"At Fordham I had taken one year of pre-medical work. I was 'kicked out.' Professor McDonough flunked me there.

"I had been kicked out of the Long Island College Hospital, too. This was at the end of three years. Another 'prof' flunked me there. He hated me from the start as I was not a fraternity man. I was quiet. There was nothing for me to do except to choose a cheap school or quit.

"So I chose Middlesex College in Cambridge. I took my junior year there.

"In all that class at Middlesex there were not more than four who had as good marks as mine.

"Then I went to St. Louis. I went because the fellows thought St. Louis might be better. It had been a grade 'A' and 'B' school and I thought it might be again."

Dr. Rifkin admitted to the American reporter that he got his diploma from the St. Louis college. This is the institution which has been recently characterized as the "diploma mill."

SWEEPING MEDICAL CLEAN-UP URGED

Editor of the Boston American,

Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:

I have been following with interest your expose' of the methods of unscrupulous and unqualified practitioners.

This is an important work and should have the support of all reputable men. It is to be hoped not only that your campaign will drive these people out of business, but that public sentiment will be so aroused that suitable legislation may be enacted to prevent others of the sort from taking their places at any time in the future.

Yours very truly,

Sees Airship Soon for Every 1,000 in Cleveland

Cleveland, O., Jan. 30.—There will be one airplane for every 1,000 people in Cleveland "in a very short time," and the airplane will be used as casually for intercity transportation as the taxicab now is for short trips within the city, Anthony H. G. Fokker, Dutch aviation expert, told the Chamber of Commerce.

His prediction, he said, might seem sanguine, but no more so than would have been an estimate twenty years ago, now borne out, that there would be one automobile for every seventh person.

WAR VET AIDS IN RESCUE OF THREE BOYS

Concord Youths Near Death as They Fall Through Thin Ice on River

Henry W. Harmon, a war veteran, shared honors with fourteen-year-old Sohier Bosley of Belknap street, Concord, in the rescue of three Concord boys, two of them brothers, who had fallen through the ice into the Concord River.

The boys, John and Joseph Whalen, aged fifteen and eleven respectively, of Grant street, and Gerald Downing, ten, of Belknap street, were skating on the ice when the younger of the Whalens crashed through into the river. His brother John and Downing tried to help him and they, too, went in.

Then came fourteen-year-old Sohier Bosley, with a plank which he pushed over the ice to Downing, who clung to it. The Whalens were clinging to the ice. Harmon left a truck he was driving and ran to the rescue with a rope. He and Bosley pulled the three boys to safety.

A richer loaf cheese for the finest tables

Serve it whenever you wish to honor a guest

When everything must be a complete success!

When the presence of a particular guest requires a special distinction, a choiceness in everything you serve. Then—choose for your cheese course the cheese that is served in places famous for their excellent cuisine.

A few years ago, Phenix, expert cheesemakers with forty years of experience in making cheese of rare full flavor, perfected a new way of mellowing cheese. A single further step undreamt of by earlier cheesemakers which gave to American, Swiss, Pimiento and Brick a rich smoothness and creaminess, a particular deliciousness never before obtained in these familiar varieties.

The special cheese that resulted from this new method, they have put up in the popular new loaf form and called Phenix Club Cheese. It is richer, smoother, and creamier than similar cheeses you have tried.

Now this new cheese delicacy is being served wherever people wish to honor their guests. And people everywhere are saying that Phenix Club Cheese is a revelation of how good American, Pimiento, Swiss and Brick Cheese can be.

Try it yourself for suppers, for luncheons or teas. Or put it in the children's sandwiches. You will find you will never wish to be without it. Phenix Cheese Company, 345 Greenwich Street, New York, N. Y.

The single further step used in mellowing Phenix Club Cheese gives to loaf cheese a tantalizing difference that makes your guests ask: "Is this a new kind of cheese?"

BISHOP LAWRENCE IS ASSAILED BY NEW JERSEY PRELATE

EPISCOPAL CHURCH NOT BIG ENOUGH FOR SUCH ROWS

Atlantic City, Jan. 30 (Universal).—Scoring Bishop William Lawrence, Episcopal, of Massachusetts, noted modernist, as a prelate who has broken his vows and failed in his trust, the Rt. Rev. Paul Matthews, Bishop of New Jersey, declared here that there is not enough room in the same ecclesiastical organization for both modernists and fundamentalists.

Bishop Matthews spoke at the opening of the tenth annual Synod of the Episcopal Church, Province of New York and New Jersey. The delegates included ten bishops of the Episcopal faith.

Bishop Lawrence, after vowing to uphold the creed of the church, had announced that he did not require any of his candidates for the ministry to profess their belief in the Virgin Birth of Christ, Bishop Matthews said.

CHURCH AT STAKE.

He continued:

"If we admit the right of individual priests and bishops to interpret the Holy Scriptures other than as the church has, then we might as well resign ourselves to another St. Bartholomew's day of slaughter.

"There is not room in the Episcopal Church for those who deny its fundamental tenets and those who maintain them; and if room is to be made, then those who have so long believed and still believe will have to question, not the honesty of those who accept the creed at the altar and cast doubt upon it from the pulpit, but the integrity of the church itself.

CALLED "IMAGE BREAKERS."

"There is a spirit of irresponsibility in the church. A peculiar malignant evil. This disturbance just raised about the foundation of the church reveals a condition evidently of long standing, the existence of which has only been suspected in the full seriousness of which we have now to meet."

He characterized the modernists as "image breakers who have exhumed an ancient heresy," and declared that the "spiritual barometer indicates lots of wind as well as abnormal temperature."

The bishop of Massachusetts tells us that he does not require his candidates to profess their belief in all the articles of the Christian faith. They themselves after their ordination cannot admit any one into the church by the sacrament of baptism without requiring just such a profession in all the articles of the Christian faith as are contained in the Apostles Creed and the further assurance that the candidate desires to be baptized in this faith.

RAPS BISHOP.

"Bishop Lawrence himself feels this to be a difficulty and hopes that the Prayer Book may be revised. I venture to predict that any changes in the doctrinal of Common Prayer have been made immensely more difficult than more easy by the publication of Bishop Lawrence's views.

"And all the while those who deny or so interpret as to deny the testimony of Holy Scripture once solemnly swore before their ordination, 'I do believe the Holy Scripture of the Old and New Testaments to be the word of God and to contain all the things necessary to salvation and I do solemnly engage to conform to the doctrine and discipline and worship of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States of America.'

"No man has been or can be ordained deacon, priest, or bishop in the church without making that constitutional declaration. Bishop Lawrance has, as I have, made that declaration thrice."

WAR VETERAN RESCUES TWO LITTLE GIRLS

F. G. Plummer, World War veteran, of Edison Park, has been acclaimed a hero by Quincy residents.

Plummer plunged into the icy waters of Town River and rescued two little girls while sailors from a nearby boat were making ineffectual efforts to reach the tots with the aid of planks and ropes.

The little victims of the near-tragedy were Clara Hayden, eight-year-old daughter of Forest Hayden, and five-year-old Iola Calderone, daughter of Thomas Calderone. Both families live in Edison Park.

The girls had been sliding down a hill in a coaster cart. The cart attained such speed that it became unmanageable and carried the children out on the thin ice of the river. The ice gave way and the youngsters were near death when Plummer rescued them.

Remarkable Discovery Banishes Gray Hair

A Proved Substitute for the Lost Pigmentation

Original Color Quickly Appears

Science again has scored a triumph in the discovery of a very remarkable liquid known as Kolor-Bak. If you are gray, just apply this liquid to the hair or scalp and your hair will soon take on the actual color it had in the past. Not a trace of grayness will remain.

Kolor-Bak comes in the form of a clean and colorless liquid, containing properties which quickly restore the lost color to the hair and give it renewed vigor. And note that the one preparation is for all colors of hair. No special solution required for each color—no samples of hair required.

You will find also that after using Kolor-Bak the hair has the same shade throughout. It does not appear streaked, faded or "dyed."

Every scientist, every physician, knows that gray hair is hair that has ceased to receive its normal supply of coloring matter or pigments from certain tiny cells (called follicles or papillae) in the scalp, because these cells have become inactive from illness, shock of some kind, scalp disease, dandruff, infection, neglect of the hair, or lack of circulation, etc. But no matter what the cause of the grayness, it is simply amazing to see how it disappears when Kolor-Bak is used. Kolor-Bak is a real substitute for the natural pigmentation.

For Dandruff, Itching Scalp and Falling Hair

Kolor-Bak also banishes dandruff, and prevents itching of the scalp and falling hair. Thoroughly cleanses scalp and hair.

PRIEST AVERTS CAMBRIDGE FIRE PANIC

Maintains Order Among 600 Dancers at St. Mary's Association

The coolness of a priest, together with a Cambridge patrolman, and members of an orchestra in attendance at a dancing party at St. Mary's Catholic Association, Prospect and Harvard streets, Cambridge, prevented a panic among 600 or more dancers, when a fire started in the rear of the building and sent dense volumes of smoke into the hall.

With a few exceptions the dancers left the hall in orderly fashion, first obtaining their coats and wraps, and made their way out of the building by the main entrance on Prospect street. The fire itself caused but a slight loss.

Shortly after 11:30 smoke began pouring in the hall from the left of the stage and there was a rush to the exits.

The Rev. Dennis W. Brown, who was downstairs in the building and smelled smoke, hastened upstairs to warn the crowd to leave. On duty was Patrolman John Finnegan, of Station 2. He and Father Brown maintained order. Walsh's orchestra in the meantime continuing playing. The orchestra did not stop until the last dancer had left and the firemen began trooping in.

Worker Crushed to Death by Six Tons of Coal

Worcester, Jan. 30.—Michael Kruba, forty-two years old, a laborer employed at the Quinsigamond plant of the Worcester Gas Light Company, was killed today when he was buried beneath six tons of coal in a shed.

Kruba walked over a pile of coal that had a frozen crust, beneath which the coal had been taken out, leaving a hole. The crust caved in and Kruba went down as the coal closed over him. Fifteen minutes later he was dug out dead.

Telley and Fogg were uninjured.

BLIND THREE YEARS, DEAF FOUR, GIRL SEES AND HEARS AGAIN

'CURED' BY CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST

Happy Patient Declares God Restored Her Lost Faculties

Milwaukee, Jan. 31.—Willetta Huggins no longer need use her nose for eyes and her fingers for ears. After four years of total deafness and three of total blindness, the girl who astounded specialists by her ability to "see" and "hear" has been cured.

A Christian Science practitioner in the girl's home town, Chippewa Falls, is given credit for the cure. Willetta herself declares God restored her sight and hearing.

Her statements that her faculties were returning were greeted with almost as much scepticism as her earlier assertions that she could distinguish colors by the smell, and sounds by touch.

RIGOROUS TESTS.

Specialists subjected her to just as rigorous tests to determine her cure as they did to try to prove she could see and hear two years ago.

The examination, made Sunday by Dr. T. J. Williams of Chicago and two assistants was so severe that Willetta was confined to her bed. However, the physicians were satisfied her sight is 10 per cent. normal, hearing in the left ear virtually normal and in the right ear 40 per cent.

They do not know how to explain her recovery unless it is due to her gradual physical improvement and her age.

EMULATES HELEN KELLAR.

The girl first said she was regaining her hearing and vision last Fall. Little attention was paid to her in the State School for the Blind, where she lives, until she returned from a Christmas vacation at her home. Then Superintendent J. T. Hooper made an examination and was convinced. He summoned the other physicians to confirm his opinion.

After she lost both sound and vision completely she surprised her teachers by beginning to emulate Helen Keller, of whom she had been told. Two years ago, under the most rigorous tests, she sorted colored yarns, identified photographs, repeated sentences which she could "hear" by placing her finger tips on the speaker's chest, and even heard telephone conversations by placing a finger on the disc of the receiver.

SUES EX-HUSBAND FOR 800,000 FRANCS

EDITH KELLY GOULD

FRANK J. GOULD FACES DIVISION OF FORTUNE

Edith Kelly Gould, His Former Wife, Sues for Half of Estate

Paris, Jan. 30 (Universal Wireless)—Frank J. Gould faces a fight to save his estimated fortune of 1,600,000,000 francs from being divided by the French courts with his former wife, Edith Kelley Gould.

Gould's divorced wife filed suit against him for 800,000,000 francs, alleging that the sum is due her under the laws of France where she resided as Gould's wife and where he is legally domiciled.

Henry Robert, her lawyer, declares that according to French law, the wife shares equally her husband's estate unless a contract to the contrary is signed before marriage, which was not done when Gould and the plaintiff were married. The lawyer claims that the Gould fortune now is 1,600,000,000 francs and demands half of it on behalf of the former wife.

Gould's lawyers claim the demand is invalid because the couple were married in England.

SAVINGS IN U. S. IN YEAR GAIN $570,000,000

Boston Second in Federal Reserve Districts, With $1,217,267,000 Deposited

Washington, Jan. 30 (I.N.S.)—America is getting thriftier and thriftier despite modern day diatribes against American extravagance.

This was shown today by an official report of the Federal Reserve Board showing that savings deposits increased $570,000,000, or 9.1 per cent. during 1923. Savings accounts in 822 representative banks increased from $6,336,928,000 to $6,913,352,000.

Despite the annual orgy of spending during the Christmas season savings increased nearly 2 per cent. during December.

"No federal reserve district showed a decrease in savings deposits during the month of December," the statement said. "The greatest increase was 3.7 per cent. in the Philadelphia district.

Savings deposits in other Federal Reserve districts were given as follows:

Philadelphia, $480,131,000; Cleveland, $464,948,000; Richmond, $293,193,000; Atlanta, $226,271,000; Chicago, $900,903,000; St. Louis, $134,823,000; Minneapolis, $92,406,000; Kansas City, $107,720,000; Dallas, $91,622,000; San Francisco, $908,205,000.

URGES SECURITY IN CAPE CANAL SA

Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware today appeared before the Legislative Committee on Public Lands and Waterways, for his resolve requesting the attorney general and Department of Public Utilities to investigate the proposed sale of the Cape Cod Canal, held by a private corporation, to the Federal government.

"The people o fthe State are vitally interested in seeing that in the proposed transfer we do not lose any of our rights," he said. "This deal involves $14,000,000. It is vouched for by the private company and the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Denby.. It is not safe that this deal be slipped through without scrutiny of the deed.

REM relieves nurse's cough—now recommends it to others

And this is just what happened to Mrs. Lily M. Fahrney, 806 Aisquith street, Baltimore. Mrs. Fahrney says:

"I've been a practical nurse for the last 25 years and have nursed all over town.

"This past winter I had a bronchial cough myself and it bothered me a lot. I had it for a couple of weeks. It was so bad you could almost hear me next door when I coughed.

"I'd read about how good REM was for coughs, so one day I thought I'd try and see what it would do for mine. Well, it was fine! It helped the roughness in my throat right away, and before I'd taken half of the second bottle my cough was entirely gone. It cleared my bronchial tubes so that I could breathe easier.

"It was so good I recommended it to a lot of other people and I bought a bottle myself for one woman whose husband was out of work and didn't have the money. It stopped her cough, too. I've never used anything so good for coughs."

The surprising popularity of REM for coughs is due very largely to grateful users who have passed the good word along.

REM contains, among other things, a special ingredient (too expensive for old-style, slower-acting cough syrups) that makes it cling to your throat as you swallow. Spreading over the sore, inflamed membranes in a soothing, healing film, it quickly quiets the cough.

REM is pleasant to take. And it contains no Opiates.

Your druggist has REM—ask him for it. You can have your money back if it doesn't help you. You're the Judge and Jury.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Forecasting A Tremendous Spring Demand

739,626

more Ford cars and trucks were produced last year than the previous year, an increase of over 50 per cent.

In spite of this tremendous increase in production, it was impossible to meet delivery requirements during the spring and summer months when orders for 350,000 Ford Cars and Trucks could not be filled.

This year winter buying for immediate delivery has been more active than ever before—and in addition 200,000 orders have already been booked through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan for spring delivery.

These facts clearly indicate that the demand during this spring and summer will be far greater than ever, and that orders should be placed immediately with Ford Dealers as a means of protection against delay in securing your Ford Car or Truck or Fordson Tractor.

DR. BRICKLEY TRIED TO SPARE HARDING

Made Ambiguous Report of Girl's Suicide to Lessen His Suffering

Dr. William J. Brickley, assistant Medical Examiner, returned a somewhat ambiguous death report in the case of Miss Margaret Harding, of No. 371 Beacon street in order that thereby he might save the suicide's father and sisters "as much suffering as was possible."

Miss Harding was the youngest daughter of W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston. She took her own life with her father's pistol after reading of the announcement of the engagement of Stanley Hawks, of the State Department at Washington, to another girl.

Dr. Brickley's admission that his "temporary" report was not what some persons would call entirely frank was made with an air which suggested his readiness to do the same thing over again under similar circumstances.

"I was satisfied, upon examination," declared the assistant Medical Examiner, "that the case indubitably was one of suicide. There was nothing otherwise criminal about it. No public interest was at stake. My report explained the cause of death as 'hemorrhage,' which was quite true as far as it went."

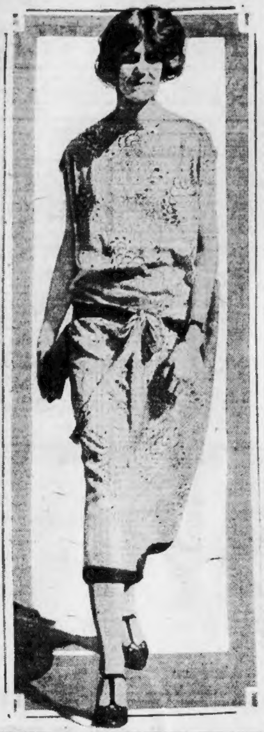
The assistant Medical Examiner has reported to District Attorney O'Brien that Miss Harding was a suicide. The district attorney looks upon the case as "closed."

ERLANGER LEASES TREMONT THEATRE

A. L. Erlanger, under the terms of a lease just signed, will be the sole lessee for five years from July 1 next, of the Tremont Theatre. The lease includes the office building in Tremont street, through which entrance to the theatre is given.

The lessors are Edmund D. Codman and John R. Lazenby, trustees under the will of Maria P. Codman, and Richards M. Bradley, John Dorr Bradley and Russell Tyson, trustees for a small tract on which one corner of the auditorium rests.

LAST PHOTO OF MISS MARGARET HARDING



Late last Summer when this photo was taken Miss Margaret Harding showed no signs that the gay whirl of Washington society had affected her. The society girl's father lays her suicide to the exhaustive demands society made on her.

TAX SLEUTHS ON ANDERSON'S TRAIL

Returns of Anti-Saloon Leader and Phillips Are Being Checked Up

New York, Jan. 30—The conviction of William H. Anderson, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, was followed today by the revelation that examiners of the Federal Income Tax Bureau had been detailed to study the returns filed by Mr. Anderson and O. Bertsall Phillips for 1920.

Wm. H. Anderson

Phillips, formerly collector for the league, split commissions with Anderson, it has been testified. The forgery charge involved changes in the league's books by which, the prosecution charged, Federal and State governments were defrauded of income taxes.

The investigation will include examination of the league's books and the private records of Anderson and Phillips.

The investigators have been ordered to hasten their work in order to determine the status of the returns before March 15, when, under the statute of limitations, they would be immune from prosecution should evidence of fraud be found.

Dry leaders today intimated that Anderson probably would appeal the verdict before February 8, the date set for pronouncement of sentence.

It was pointed out that George Z. Medalie, who has argued many cases before the appellate division, had been at the defence counsel table for the last few days of the trial.

Got What Was Coming to Him, Says Cuvillier

Albany, Jan. 30.—The conviction of William H. Anderson, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League had an echo in the Legislature today. Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, of New York, attempted to introduce a resolution approving the verdict of the jury "as sustaining justice and the punishment of all evil doers."

Republican objections blocked introduction of the resolution.

Cuvillier, speaking on a question of personal privileges, declared that Anderson had charged that he was "in league with the wet interests."

"I am publicly, officially and personally wet," Cuvillier added, "and I want to say that Anderson got what was coming to him when he was convicted."

FAMILY DESTITUTE, FATHER IS SOUGHT

Philias Caron was a painter. He was said to be one of the best in the business when it came to painting signs on big smokestacks.

One day Philias, the confident, fell. The girl was winsome Maria Duval, and the couple were married at Fitchburg, June 9, 1913. Four children, three girls and a boy, came to bless their union.

Then John Barleycorn came and trouble. Finally, on April 19, 1923 Philias disappeared.

MUSCLE SHOALS PLANT UP FOR AUCTION

Committee Meets in Secret to Fix Terms; Ford Leading Bidder

Washington, Jan. 30 (I.N.S.)—Muscle Shoals went on the auction block today and prospects appeared favorable that the famous power plant will soon have a new owner.

The House military affairs committee went into secret session today to consider final disposition of this great plant, on which the government has spent more than $100,000,000, and to draft the legislation necessary to turn it over to a private operator under sale and lease.

Henry Ford is the leading bidder, with an offer to take the properties under a 100-year lease, paying therefor $100,000,000 during the life of the lease, and to keep up government interest charges. He guarantees to manufacture 4000 tons of fertilizer nitrates from which 200,000 tons of commercial fertilizers could be manufactured annually. He would sell this fertilizer to farmers at cost plus 8 per cent.

DALMATIA IN PANIC WHEN EARTH ROCKS

Rome, Jan 30 (I.N.S.)—A severe earthquake shock was felt today at Zara, Dalmatia, but no loss of life was reported. The population was thrown into panic and hundreds took refuge in nearby fields. Some buildings were damaged

JOHNNY WILSON MAKES IT THREE IN A ROW OVER PAL REED

ONE ROUND ONLY FOR PARSON

By JACK CONWAY

Pal Reed.

Wilson won every round but the sixth, which saw the Reed colors out front.

Although Johnny won by a comfortable margin, he was obliged to step at a lively clip, as Reed was continuously forcing the issue and was always ready to engage in an exchange of blows.

IT WAS ELKS' NIGHT AND THE CROWD WAS LARGE.

It was Elks' Night at the Triple A. A large delegation of Brother Bills from all parts of New England, headed by Exalted Ruler Daniel Kane of the Boston Lodge, were at the ringside.

There was a large crowd in attendance, which was a tribute to the drawing powers of Wilson and Reed. The fans know that whenever these men clash in the ring they will see a spirited engagement.

Johnny opened up a slight gash under Reed's right eye in the sixth frame and this injury handicapped Pal considerably during the closing rounds of the tussle.

PAL OPENED THE FOURTH SESSION WITH A SPURT.

Reed opened a spurt in the fourth session. He kept crowding Wilson, scoring with some sharp, damaging socks when at close quarters. He also landed a hefty left hand swing to the jaw which set Wilson back. It was Wilson's round by a slight margin.

Reed continued his spectacular work in the sixth frame and by heavy body punches carried the round.

Jack Sharkey, a heavyweight, proved a sensation when he knocked out Billy Muldoon of Lynn in one round. Sharkey only smiled when Muldoon hit him in the chin with a heavy right. Sharkey rocked Muldoon with right hand socks and left hooks.

OLD MAT RIVALS TO BATTLE

STASIAK RILED BY LEWIS' AID TO ALVAREZ

Strangler Lewis

"Why should Lewis take one side or the other of this match?" said the big fellow. In his match with Alvarez I didn't take either side. This is twice he has picked me to go down to defeat. He also picked Dakota Jack Turner to beat me.

"The truth of the matter is the Strangler wants me beaten, and that without having to do it himself. Tell Mr. Lewis and Mr. Alvarez that I will be right there tomorrow night, and their insinuations and predictions won't help any. It will just be Panama Joe and myself after we get into the ring, and I will give that bird one grand trimming."

Alvarez finished his training with a public workout. The balance of his edging up will be done in private. He plans to pull a few tricks on the Polish Lion that he doesn't want every one to know about. One thing is sure, since coming to Boston Panama Joe has been a sensation and has always pulled the unexpected.

He likes Boston and the people here and if he defeats Stasiak tomorrow night he will have made a steady berth for himself here.

In speaking of the match, Joe said, "I beat Stasiak a fall in our first meeting. True, it took over one hour and a half, but then he is big and tough. I had to wear him down. Then he rushed me to the ropes and when I broke he picked me up and slammed me so hard he knocked me out.

"He won't get away with that on this occasion. When time is called, I will be in there to wrestle until I gain two falls or make the big Pole quit. I don't know which it will be, but, one or the other is bound to happen. Then the big fellows for me from that time on. Just say for me that I am fit and ready."

George Farmer Bailey, Brattleboro strong man, is fit and ready for his go, as is also Nick Bozinis, the young Greek star. All matches are to a positive finish.

ANDERSON WINS IN AUSTRALIAN TENNIS

Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 30.—J. O. Anderson won the Australian lawn tennis singles championship. He defeated R. E. Schlesinger in the final, 6-3, 6-4, 2-6, 5-7, 6-3.

In the doubles final Anderson was paired with Norman Brooks. They defeated Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

AMATEURS WILL BATTLE FOR RING FAME

Eddie Zine

Other boys entered are: Jack Flynn, George French and Tommy Card, 126 pounds, of East Boston; George Porto and Joseph Aiello, 135, both of East Boston; Dick Brennan, 112, Freddie Rogers and Joseph Montreal, 118 pounds.

Wrestling Program at Mechanics Tonight

Semi-final—Dick Daviscourt vs. Jack Sampson, one fall finish.

Jack Conway Picks Mondt, Daviscourt and Judson to Win

Jack Conway, holder of the world's record of picking winners, hands out the inside dope on the big wrestling carnival to be staged by George V. Tuohey at Mechanics Building tonight:

"Tuohey will show some of the world's leading grapplers," says Jack. "As the men are well matched, it is difficult to name the winners. I am picking Mondt to win over Zanovitch, Daviscourt to dispose of Sampson and Judson to conquer his opponent. It should be a show filled with action."

Jack handed the fans the right dope when he declared that Johnny Wilson would defeat Pal Reed at Elks night at the Armory A. A.

THEY WILL RIDE IN LOS ANGELES RACES

Turin, Jan. 30 (Universal).—The automobile racing drivers, Borzino and Niazzaro, announced that they will leave shortly for Los Angeles where they will compete in a Miller car in a twenty-five-mile race against the Milton.

Carroll Defeats Rose

William Carroll defeated Robert Rose, 50 to 46, in the three-cushion billiard championship at the State Billiard Club. Carroll made a high run of 6 while Rose made a run of 5.

TUOHEY OFFERS A SPLENDID MAT BILL

"Toots" Mondt, fully 50 per cent. faster and better than when he gave Strangler Lewis such a shock here eighteen months ago, will face Paul Zanovich, the Lithuanian star, in a two-out-of-three-fall match as the feature number of Promoter Tuohey's elimination series in Mechanics Building tonight.

Dick Daviscourt

Tuohey bills a match that should result in some of the hardest, fastest and best wrestling seen here in many nights. Mondt, fast and aggressive and relentless as he is, is not a whit more speedy than Zanovich.

Nor is he any more aggressive. At the same time the peculiar style of Zanovich, entirely different from any thing seen among modern wrestlers, is more than likely to shock Mondt just as hard as the Colorado star upset Lewis.

With a two out of three session on tap, it looks like real whirlwind action from beginning to end, regardless of who wins.

In the semi-final, Dick Daviscourt comes back in his old form, and that means he is a most pleasing performer, and a hard worker. He is pitted against Jack Sampson, a tough fellow, whose work against Lewis here was so exceptionally good at a time when the champion was at his best. Daviscourt and Sampson go to a one-fall finish.

Frank Judson, former Harvard mat coach, will meet an opponent to be selected by the promoter.

TWO BIG BOUTS ON THE C. A. C. PROGRAM

Two of the best ring stars ever developed in England have been given places of honor on the card of the Commercial A. C. at Mechanics Building next Tuesday night.

Frank Moody, middleweight, and Ted Marchant, lightweight champion of England, will make their debuts in Boston against high class opponents.

Ted Marchant

Moody, who has toppled over eight opponents since he set foot in thi scountry, will clash with Louis Bogash of Bridgeport.

Marchant, who knocked out George K. O. Chaney of Baltimore has been paired with Archie Walker of New York.

Moody's last fight resulted in a victory over Pal Reed and for this reason local fans want to see him in action.

GROTON'S BASEBALL DATES ANNOUNCED

Groton School's baseball team will play a schedule of fourteen games this season. They open with Colby Academy on April 12.

The St. Mark's game, which comes Wednesday, May 28, will be played on the Groton field.

Boston Latin and Boston English are the only high school teams which the private school teams will meet this season.

PITTSBURGH IS EASY WINNER, 4 TO 1

Battered and bruised from the heavy checking of the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets the Boston Hockey Club gave way to defeat, 4 to 1.

Joe Stubbs

The Western style of hockey proved too strenuous for the lads of this city who played a modest, clean game. George Owen, the former Harvard athletic ace, failed to put in an appearance. It was reported that the Newton lad is sick.

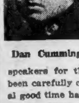
The two teams started with brilliance. The first thrill came when Lionel Conacher, the star of the Pittsburgh outfit, sent a pass from left defence which McCurry gathered and shot it by Drowne for the first counter.

Bright was at his best and was greatly helped in the defence by Joe Stubbs, whose checking was brilliant. Bright was too fast for the Yellow Jacket outfit, but had no aid from his teammates.

Shortly after the opening of the second session Cotton got away to a flying start and aged a goal for Pittsburgh. The time was one minute and thirty-one seconds.

Neponset Wanderers Banquet Football Stars Tonight

The annual football banquet of the Neponset Wanderers will be tendered the gridiron warriors this evening in Walnut Hall, Neponset. In past years this event has been the big happening on the Winter calendar of the clubsters, and this year's bids fair to excel that of any in the past.



Dan Cummings.

The list of speakers for the evening, have been carefully chosen and a general good time has been arranged by the committee. Jack Conway, boxing editor of the Boston American, will give the gathering a little inside dope on the boxing game, while Mayor James M. Curley and several other city and State officials have been invited to attend.

SAYS MOORE IS TWO-FISTED FIGHTER

The stock of Ted Moore, the British middleweight, who will meet Dave Shade at the Faneuil A. A. show in Mechanics Building, Friday night, is soaring. His sensational victory over Larry Estridge, the colored middleweight, stamped him as a fighter that the best in the land must respect.

Honey Boy

Estridge was a two to one favorite. He had won fifty-three fights and had lost none. Estridge never had a chance in the fifteen rounds. Moore was a complete puzzle to him and hit the colored man when and where he pleased.

Moore was at the ringside of the Wilson-Reed battle. He will work out at Kelley & Hayes' Gymnasium today and tomorrow. He will do a little road work so as to keep himself well under 160 pounds, as he has a $500 forfeit to make that weight.

Moore is a two-fisted fighter, says Tom O'Rourke, his manager. "He can box with the best of them and slug with the toughest of them. He is as game as they make 'em.

"I am confident that Moore will beat Shade and will go through the entire middleweight division and win the title if he gets the opportunity to meet Greb."

Hundreds of Dorchester admirers of Honey Boy Dick Finnigan will occupy a section and root for their favorite in his battle with Freddy Jacks of England.

Scoops White, of Worcester, and Freddy Warren, of South Boston, will clash in one of these bouts, and in the other, Steve Gustin and Johnny Fox will do the mixing.

JOE JACKSON DENIES PART IN SOX 'STEAL"

Milwaukee, Jan. 30.—Joe Jackson, ex-Chicago American League club outfielder, denied on the witness stand that he was implicated in the "throwing" of the 1919 World's Series to Cincinnati. Jackson is suing the White Sox for $18,500, the amount he alleges he would have earned under his unexpired contract.

Jackson declared that Lefty Williams, a teammate, came to him after the series and threw an envelope containing $5,000 at his feet as Jackson's share of the money alleged to have been paid for "throwing" the series.

Jackson said he became angry and demanded of Williams what he meant.

Sports writers who attended the games testified that Jackson's playing during the series was that of a player doing his best for his club.

AMERICAN OFFICIAL PROTESTS THE OLYMPIC ICE SCORING

OBJECTS TO 25 POINT BONUS

Chamonix, France, Jan. 30 (I'n'l) — A spirited dispute has developed over the method of scoring points in the Olympic Winter sports events. Before leaving Chamonix, William Taylor, manager of the American speed skating team, told the French Olympic Committee that he was lodging a protest with the International Olympic Committee and the International Skating Union against the allowance of 25 extra points under the heading "general classification" for men competing in all four skating races as a bonus for their participation.

Valentine Bialis.

This method of scoring brings the total number of points to 175 and makes the standing of the nations, according to the French committee's official list, as follows: Finland 62½, Norway 49½, United States 11, Sweden 1 and France 1.

Mr. Taylor argued that the bonus system was unfair, as it gave Charles Jewtraw, who scored ten points for the United States by winning the 500-metre race, no chance to figure in the general classification because he did not participate in the 10,000 meter event.

"It's like asking Charley Paddock to run in the 100-metre dash and all intermediary races up to the 5,000-metre run in order to get a rating," Mr. Taylor said.

The French committee is obdurate and insists that the figures as revised must stand.

PIONEER A. A. LOOK FOR LARGE CROWD

To judge by the interest taken in the open amateur show of the Pioneer A. A. of Lynn at Casino Hall Friday evening, one of the largest crowds that ever attended a "simon pure" show in the Shoe city will be on hand.

Tommy Duffy

The fact that a novice heavyweight class is on the card has the fans all steamed up, as they think there's more real fun watching the novice huskies in action than in any other class.

There are four other classes on the card—112, 118, 126, and 147 pounds, in which some of the fastest boys in the amateur class in this section have entered.

BILLY MURPHY AND JAWSON AT LYNN

Billy Murphy, the sensational Lowell featherweight who has won 25 consecutive bouts, will face the stiffest opposition of his career when he meets Joe Jawson of Milwaukee in the feature bout at the Casino A. C., Lynn, on Monday night.

Billy Murphy

Alex McLean, who manages Murphy, believes the time has come to send his protege against the best opponents who can be found.

Jawson is a sweet fighter, a boy who is good enough to meet anyone his weight, and who has swapped punches with such stars as Johnny Mendelsohn, Pinky Mitchell, Richie Mitchell, Clonie Tait and Sailor Friedman. Jawson is a buzz saw in the ring. He is a stiff puncher who loves to swap blows at close range.

Jawson is good enough to give Murphy the test of his career.

SUGGEST KILLINGER AS WESLEYAN COACH

Middletown, Ct., Jan. 30.—After the announcement of the resignation of Dr. Edgar Fauver as director of athletics at Wesleyan, prominent alumni suggested that the trustees sign Glenn Killinger, one time Penn State gridiron and diamond star, to coach the athletic teams at the Methodist college.

There are some who say it was the threatened interference of the alumni, with the idea to put Killinger in charge of intercollegiate athletics and leave the intra-mural sports to Dr. Fauver, that caused the latter to resign.

Schoolboys Deserve Better Track Chance

By FRED C. LANE.

In the past five years the advancement in track sport in our Greater Boston schools has been the talk of the schoolboy world. This sort of exercise having been the most interesting Winter occupation in scholastic circles, but only in late years has it been a real feature in the life of a schoolboy [illegible]

Harold Moody

The lads have [illegible] remarkable improvement in their form [illegible] coaching. The sport has been put on [illegible] basis something un[illegible] looked for. [illegible] attend these various meets grow larger each year. Yet there seems to be one obstacle that, unless removed, will prevent the sport from reaching the pinnacle now enjoyed by our Western schools.

It has been demonstrated time and again that larger quarters are needed in many of the Greater Boston schools on which to run off meets and to practice for the same. For instance Medford High has a dual meet with Rindge Tech slated for today. The quarters in which the meet will be run off are larger than a handbox by [illegible] It is impossible to run a dash event over twenty-five yards on the floor. It is impossible to run a 300 yard race in which all the runners start. The same is true of every running event on the card. Only the field events can take place without hindrance.

Yet under such conditions Medford High has been a predominating factor in scholastic sports in Greater Boston. We are not singling out Medford High for our criticism solely; the same condition exists at Brookline, Newton, Lynn English, Lynn Classical, Everett—in fact, all of our suburban cities.

Johnny Clarkin

The above named schools have winning teams on the floor each year. What would be the result were their quarters so enlarged that the full strength of these teams could be developed?

Once a year a number of relay teams are sent to the Penn. games. Generally three of the fastest school[illegible] teams in these parts make the trip [illegible] against the [illegible] scholastic stars in the country. They line their forces against teams that have larger quarters in which to train, with the result that but few if any of our delegations have returned to New England with a [illegible]

MOVE TO FIX UP ANGLO-FRENCH RELATIONS

Premier MacDonald's Letter to Poincare Finds Latter "Sympathetic"

London, Jan. 30.—Prime Minister MacDonald recently sent a personal letter to Premier Poincare in which he expressed a desire for a settlement of the difficulties between Great Britain and France and for a complete Anglo-French understanding and M. Poincare replied sympathetically, according to statements today in the Daily Telegraph and the Daily Express.

By this action the new head of the British Government picked up the thread of Franco-British relations at the point where it was broken after the interview between Mr. Baldwin and Premier Poincare in Paris last Autumn, says the Telegraph.

It adds that the letter was dispatched in accordance with the British statesman's aversion to the traditional methods of diplomacy and his preference for more direct means of negotiations.

The letter, written as soon as Premier MacDonald was installed, was delivered through Lord Crewe, the British Ambassador at Paris. It informed M. Poincare that the new government had been organized and reminded with perfect candor that relations between the two countries, for several well understood reasons, had ceased to be as friendly as formerly, and that public opinion in Great Britain viewed the French policy with a certain degree of suspicion, being somewhat nervous about what might happen in Europe.

MacDonald then, according to the Telegraph, expressed a willingness "to meet Poincare half way in an attempt to achieve a final, complete and clear statement."

He also voiced the hope that the French Government, in the same conciliatory spirit, would be ready to discuss all outstanding questions.

M. Poincare's answer, asserts the newspaper, was awaited with some anxiety lest the proposal should not have been received, but it seems that the answer was sympathetic, giving rise to a hope for a better atmosphere for a discussion of troublesome issues between the two nations.

Spanish Diva, 29, Says No Woman Should Osculate Until She Is 40

Paris, Jan. [illegible]—The only way a woman can succeed in life is to have nothing whatever to do with men until she is forty years old."

This was the startling declaration on her arrival here, of the famous Spanish Diva, Elvira Hidalgo, who is en route to London to sing at Covent Garden.

The singer, who is 29, bases her success in opera on the fact that she "never let any man get closer than within a yard of me."

"On every side I see women following my example," she said. "The anti-men movement is already strong in Spain, where hundreds of women have renounced all male companionship until they have succeeded in life.

CENSURE AND PRAISE FOR MAJOR

Two Views Are Presented in Letter Sent to U. S. Senate

Debate on the Teapot Dome [illegible] oil [illegible] taking precedence [illegible] Senate [illegible] the nomination of [illegible] Colonel Duncan K. Major [illegible] rank of colonel in [illegible] been indefinitely postponed.

Once the Teapot Dome matter is out of the way, the Senate will go into executive session on the Major case.

Letters lauding and [illegible] Major have been filed as exhibits in the Major case [illegible] figure prominently in the Senate proceedings when the case comes up.

One is a letter to Brigadier General Edward L. Logan from Colonel John C. Greenway, which refers to Major as a "human [illegible]." The letter, written at Base Hospital [illegible] A. E. F., follows in part:

ADMIRED COLE.

"Dear Logan: I want to thank you first for the letters of recommendation for the D. S. C., handed me by Casey, and your last letter brought by Hadley. Many things have happened since you left. We held Bois Bou Bois for two nights and turned it over to the 1[illegible]th.

"Your friend at headquarters, Duncan Major, is all you said he was—a human polecat. How he hangs on, I don't see. The division has a new commanding officer, General Hale, who I hear is a fine soldier. I hear Cole has asked for an investigation of his removal. I would like to be a witness for him as I admire his ability."

MAJOR DEFENDED.

A letter from Robert E. Goodwin, formerly colonel of the 101st field artillery, 26th division, to Senator Lodge, speaks highly of Major. Extracts from the letter follow:

"My dear Senator Lodge: I have been rather disturbed over reading in the Boston papers of the attack which is being made on Lt. Col. Duncan K. Major by certain officers of the 26th division. I served with that division all through the war.

"I was a national guard officer and a great believer in the national guard, but in every occasion when I came in personal contact with Col. Major I was treated with courtesy and a spirit of co-operation by him.

"Leaving aside entirely the question whether Colonel Major was justified in his treatment of certain of the officers of our division, I think it is only fair to point out that all three of the artillery regiments came home under the command of national guard colonels, all three of whom had gone overseas as majors, and of these three all of them were promoted to the rank of lieutenant-colonel in the line, and two of them were again promoted to the rank of colonel during the fighting.

CHARGE COP TOOK $17 FOR TORN COAT

The uniform was torn by an automobile driven by a Lawrence man while Wallace was directing traffic in the congested market district.

Wallace took the name of the driver and his license number. He also took $17 from the man to pay for the damage done to his coat.

At least that is what the Lawrence man claimed when Wallace later asked for a new coat and the city claim department tried to collect from the owner of the machine which did the damage.

Overcoats

At Drastic Price Reductions

We've no alibis to offer—no excuses to make. We're loaded with a tremendous stock of fine Overcoats which our policy forbids carrying over. Desperate situations require desperate measures, so without regard for cost or loss, we throw this whole stock of extra choice coats on the market at just three prices, which come nearer to giving you something for nothing than you've seen in many a day—if ever.

$35, $40 and $45 Overcoats now* $25

$50, $55 and $60 Overcoats now* $35

$70, $75, $80, $85 Overcoats now* $50

All these coats were new this season, all are exceptionally high grade, and lots of them bear the Kuppenheimer label. Overcoat wools are going up all the time, and you'll pretty nearly double your money on the investment if you lay one of these coats aside for next winter.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON THE BENEFITS OF A MILITARY SCHOOL

By Dr. Frank Crane

I AM not one of those who run away with catch words, and see red at a war cry.

I am an incurable pacifist and utterly opposed to that old system under which the governments of the world still function, the system that renders rival national armies and navies a necessity.

But for all that, I believe the army and navy should be retained by every nation, not so much as a defence, but as furnishing the best machinery of education.

I believe in military training not only for every boy, but for every girl.

This military training in no sense implies training to murder or developing the lust to kill.

But it does imply certain things that are of more necessity for youth than other things that can be supplied elsewhere.

The child learns best, by military training, the meaning of discipline and perhaps more souls are lost and bodies ruined by lack of discipline than from any other cause.

The child, by military training, has developed in him a sense of responsibility and this is the core of good citizenship.

The child, by military training, gets practical and invaluable physical development.

He learns to make use of that tonic which, more than any other, can put iron in the soul—hardship

He learns decision; and indecision is the mother of all slobs.

He learns obedience; not only obedience to his superiors, but obedience to himself, which is more important.

He learns team play, and, after all, the ability to co-operate is of more value to the human being than the ability to compete.

If he learns "jingoism" and the bunk about the glory of war and conquest, it is not because this sort of rubbish is in any wise essential to military training.

Military training does not imply that those who receive it shall become professional soldiers. But in a free democracy every human being is a potential soldier. He or she may be called upon at any time to sacrifice fortune or life for the common good. And perhaps the most important thing in military training is the fact that the youth has his budding ego properly pruned. He is made to feel that there is something in this world more important than his own private interests.

One of the cardinal paragraphs of my creed is that every boy and girl in America should be required to give at least one year to the service of Uncle Sam.

Military training might easily become the very best means of developing the civic nerve. And one great trouble with the country is that too commonly this nerve is atrophied.

Give Them Jobs They CAN Like

Don't Preach Long Sermons at Them—They Don't Like Long Sermons

Copyright, 1924 Star Co

Mr. B. C. Forbes, who writes brilliantly for the Boston American, says: "President Roosevelt got through an enormous amount of work without caving in. He revealed the secret of his ability to do this one day. It was I LIKE MY JOB."

Many employers will say to their employes, "Why don't you also LIKE YOUR JOB, and incidentally love your employer?"

Before you ask a man why he doesn't LIKE his job, make sure that you have given him a job that he CAN like.

Many employers will give a copy of "A Message to Garcia" to an employe and then expect that employe, most enthusiastically, to break his neck taking a message with theatre tickets to lady in Brookline.

There is a big difference between carrying a message to Garcia and carrying a message to an estimable lady in Brookline. Carrying a message to Garcia is exciting, it's dangerous, it's worth while.

Brushing off your employer's overcoat or running errands for him isn't exciting, and he is an idiot if he thinks there is any resemblance between the message to Garcia and the kind of work that he hands out.

Employers will do better for themselves and for the country when they lecture their employes less and lecture THEMSELVES more.

Make industry attractive, AND YOU WILL HAVE NO TROUBLE IN PRODUCTION, NO REVOLUTION, NO DISCONTENT.

Attractive industry WILL SOLVE ALL THE PROBLEMS OF INDUSTRY EVENTUALLY.

There's nothing like owning the place to make industry attractive.

No wonder Theodore Roosevelt liked his job. He was President of the United States. He "owned the place"—or at least THOUGHT he did.

Everybody flattered him, everybody kowtowed to him. Of course he LIKED HIS JOB.

That job flattered his vanity, gave exercise to all of his faculties. There is no reason why employers should expect men to like dull, stupid jobs, doing the same thing over and over, hour after hour, every day.

MAKE INDUSTRY ATTRACTIVE. Find ways to interest workers in their work. That is the employer's job.

Kings of old days understood the importance of making men like their jobs. They paid no attention, of course, to ditch diggers and other hard workers. We pay no attention to them today, either.

But it was important to the kings that their soldiers should be happy—that THEY should like THEIR JOBS.

And everything was done to MAKE the soldier like his job. When a city was captured the soldier was allowed to loot the city and carry off as much property and as many ladies as he pleased. The soldier was dressed in fancy uniform, that he might be able to win the admiration of young women. When the soldier marched there was a band ahead to make marching pleasant. That helped him to LIKE HIS JOB.

When the present KINGS OF MONEY show as much desire to have THEIR SOLDIERS like their jobs as the old kings of ARMIES showed, industry will run more smoothly and there will be less talk about revolution.

Don't preach at your workers; preach at YOURSELVES. If there is anything wrong, it's wrong with YOU.

Candler Fights $500,000 Love Suit

WIDOW SAYS SHE WAS JILTED

Sues Millionaire Who Married a Typist With Twins in Her Place

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 30 (I.N.S.).—Beauty battled with age today in the famous Debouchell-Candler heart balm suit for half a million dollars.

The scene was in a United States District Court. Asa G. Candler, aged multi-millionaire Coca Cola king, played the role of age. Mrs. Onezima Debouchell, society leader of New Orleans, took the part of beauty. Breach of promise was the issue.

Mrs. Debouchell is asking $100,000 for her broken heart because the millionaire did not marry her. They were to have been united in the Fall of 1922, according to her petition, when he severed all relations.

This was not until five days before the ceremony, she said. Guests had been invited, flowers ordered, the pastor had been engaged, her trousseau was completed—everything was ready but the bridegroom.

Mrs. De Bouchel

Asa G. Candler

BREATH OF SCANDAL.

He broke the news in a letter, she said, asserting that the marriage would be impossible. He spoke of scandal which had reached his ears—of a story to the effect that she at one time had invited two men to her room while staying in an Atlanta hotel. He could never marry such a woman.

The New Orleans beauty stoutly denies the charges. She has brought a host of friends from the Louisiana city, who will, if necessary, testify to her character. If necessary, they will also tell of the Coca Cola king's alleged ardent wooing and of completed arrangements for the wedding.

BLOCKED BY HEIRS.

The real cause of the breach, according to Mrs. Debouchelle, was opposition offered by the Candler heirs. Candler, himself, had spoken of this to her, but expressed confidence that "everything would be all right" because of large sums of money he had given to them.

"Nevertheless, five days before the wedding date his "wholly unexpected" letter brought an abrupt and dramatic conclusion to their plans. Contents of this letter, Mrs. Debouchell declares, should be worth $500,000, and she is in Atlanta to get it.

The pending suit and Mrs. Debouchell's "broken heart," however, failed to quelch the defendant's matrimonial desires. Several months ago he was married to an Atlanta stenographer. She was a widow and had two children—twin girls. After a brief honeymoon the two returned to Atlanta and now are living in his palatial mansion here. Mrs. Debouchell is still unattached.

HUNT GANG HEADED BY BEAUTY

Somerville and Medford Police Trace Six Burglaries to Gang Led by Girl

Police of Somerville and Medford are on the trail of a gang of robbers and safe-breakers, the leader of which is a well-dressed, beautiful young girl.

During the past two weeks more than half a dozen safes in the two places have been broken open and from evidence uncovered within the last twenty-four hours it is believed that all the robberies were the work of this one band and that the girl is the leader of the gang.

The robbers are not "blow-up" cracksmen, but rob only offices where small safes are used. The usual method is to turn the safe on its side and knock off the combination with a heavy sledge hammer muffling the blows with an old blanket.

The latest robbery occurred at the office of the Somerville Coal Company, No. 594 Mystic avenue, Somerville. The safe in the office was broken open and $150 in cash was secured.

An anonymous letter gave the police their first real clew as to the identity of the gang and the girl leader.

The letter told the police the number of the license plate of the automobile that drew up in front of the coal office late in the evening and gave a description of the men who forced an entrance to the office.

A full description of the bandit "queen" who remained at the wheel of the automobile with the engine runing, while the safe was being opened, also was given.

Evidence secured at the other robberies also disclosed the fact that a automobile with engine running and a female driver was generally parked somewhere near the scene of the robbery.

The police are endeavoring to run down the automobile and owner mentioned in the anonymous letter.

WHOLE TOWN AT GAS VICTIMS' FUNERAL

Cumberland, R. I., Jan. 30.—The entire populace of Manville today attended the funeral of Michael Conway, one of the fifteen victims of Monday's explosion. The Manville mill, where Conway was employed was closed. Funeral services of the thirteen members of the Hamel family, which was completely wiped out, will be held tomorrow. Attorney General Carpenter, who is investigating the fatal blast, issued orders that nothing be removed from the ruins until his inquiry has been completed.

'LUCKY STONE' RAND'S ROBBERY A DREAM

Back in 1915 Rand was sentenced to nine months in Federal prison and fined $1,000 for using the mails to defraud in the sale of "lucky stones." In one year he sold 30,000 persons each a stone at $1 apiece.

Last April he notified police he had been beaten and robbed in his store at No. 76 Tremont street. Joseph Kelley was arrested as one of the robbers; also Charlotte Cheeney, charged with inciting the robbery. The other man was never arrested.

Today Kelley and Miss Cheeney, who once worked for Rand, were placed on trial. When Miss Cheeney testified that she was working for Rand and was in his store all of the day the robbery was supposed to have happened and that no robbery occurred, the case came to an abrupt end.

She testified Rand had ordered her to call "all the newspapers" and tell them he had been robbed of a $1,000 diamond, a $1000 stickpin, a pistol and $140 in cash, and that she had done so.

Reporters testified that they found Miss Cheeney working for the "lucky stone" man when they hurried to the store and that Rand had posed for photographs and given a description of the supposed attack.

STAR PLANS TO WED HIS 6TH WIFE

Death of Rival Gives Him a Clear Track in Famous "Matrimonial Stakes"

They remained wed for fourteen years when Miss Bergen took the same method as her predecessors in cutting the marital knot.

Finally came Miss Furry, better known to the theatrical world as Hedda Hopper. They had one child, a son, 'Billy,' now eight years of age. The only other child to the Hopper unions was a son born to his second wife.

CALL PARLEY IN NEW ULSTER BORDER ROW

Conference Friday May Avert Threatened Clash; Crisis Is Reported Serious

Dublin, Jan. 30 (P)—President Cosgrave of the Dail Eireann and Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, accompanied by colleagues and advisers, will arrive in London Friday for a friendly conference over the adjustment of the boundary between Northern and Southern Ireland.

This conference is the outcome of a proposal originally put forth by Stanley Baldwin when he was prime minister, and accepted by both the Ulster premier and President Cosgrave, the meeting being postponed, however, because of the holding of general elections.

By the terms of the Anglo-Irish treaty, Ulster, failing to reach an agreement with the Free State, must have her boundaries re-arranged by a boundary commission with one representative each for Great Britain, Southern Ireland and Ulster.

Sir James Craig has always refused to recognize this clause in the treaty on the ground that he was no party to it, and has stated that he would not appoint an Ulster representative on the commission, adding that should the committee remove Ulster of any territory she would not submit to the deprivation.

Warlike Moves Made Along Ulster Border

Belfast, Jan. 30 (I.N.S.)—Warlike preparations are being made by the Irish Free State along the Ulster border, according to advices received here today.

The uneasiness is being increased by news of the forthcoming boundary conference in London Friday, because it is feared that the Labor movement of England will favor the Free State's claims.

Commandant Nixon of the Ulster constabulary reports that the southern side of the Ulster-Free State line is bristling with artillery, airplanes and armored cars.

Union leaders have set up the cry "not one inch of Ulster soil shall be taken by the Free State."

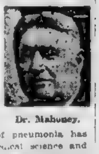
JOINT-EASE

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. F. X. MAHONEY,
Boston Health Commissioner.



Dr. Mahoney.

THE pneumonia "season" is now at its height. While this dread disease, which causes 10 per cent of all deaths in the United States is found throughout [illegible] year, [illegible] per cent of the cases [illegible] between [illegible] and March. At [illegible] the last [illegible] days in Boston the rate of deaths from pneumonia has been doubled.

The successful treatment of pneumonia has long baffled medical science and there is nothing that is absolute in rendering a person immune.

There are certain things, however, that one may easily do that will considerably reduce the danger of contracting the disease.

Remember that pneumonia as a general rule follows conditions which may be corrected.

When a person's system is run down the body offers a fertile ground for pneumonia germs. Worry often will reduce the vitality to such an extent that the organisms of the disease cannot be warded off.

The presence of other diseases is the great predisposing cause of pneumonia. Holding first rank in this category is influenza or grip. The increased number of pneumonia cases in Boston at this time is due to the present epidemic of grip. Persons suffering from grip should observe every hygienic rule.

KEEP UP VITALITY

Bronchitis and tonsilitis often predispose to a development of the disease particularly among the aged and infirm. The acute contagious diseases of childhood such as measles and whooping cough frequently pave the way for pneumonia.

In fact, any kind of a malady suffered at this time of the year may lead up to pneumonia so that any disposition should be carefully treated and every effort made to keep the vitality of the body as high as possible.

Exposure to penetrating winds and the chilling of the body surfaces as a result of wetting often lead to pneumonia. Bad hours, mental or physical harassment and overwork are alike the advance agents of pneumonia.

If you work in an office, see that the temperature is kept as cool as consistent with comfort. Working in a high temperature makes a person easily susceptible to colds.

One thing of first importance—alcohol.

Alcohol is in truth the hand maiden of pneumonia. The person who uses alcohol continuously and liberally is almost sure to get pneumonia.

It is true that pneumonia frequently attacks those who are perfectly well and those who observe every hygienic rule, but it is recognized that avoidance of the factors we have mentioned will in a large measure diminish individual susceptibility.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

MRS. J. C. writes a list of ailments from which she says she has been suffering and asks for a remedy and relief. Scores of letters similar to hers are being sent me, which contain conditions or alleged conditions which it would not be fair for me to answer and neither would it be proper for her to receive an answer. They are purely medical conditions which should not be diagnosed by mail. Some symptoms which are described in letters do not contain all the information that could be had if a physician were consulted. Questions relating to health and preventive medicine, to food, light, ventilation and sanitation will be answered as promptly as possible. I should prefer not to answer letters of a purely medical character.

G. F., Rockland—I feel that your physician is taking good care of you. Have patience and confidence in him and I think you will soon be on the road to recovery.

May a person 68 years of age, who has pains in his legs, have arterio-sclerosis?
MR. AND MRS. R.

When persons reach 45 years of age, the arteries begin to harden. A man of 68 years is very likely to have some hardening, followed by symptoms you describe. Your doctor will advise you better upon examination. You should lessen your exertion and get as much rest as possible.

I am 62 and dread and fear cold water. What is the cause?

The trouble, I believe, is imaginary. If the cold water chills you, it would be well to begin with warm or tepid water with a daily decrease in the temperature, until you can use it cold.

I would like to know about a lung abscess that has formed near the windpipe?

MEATLESS DIET BLAMED FOR ILLNESS

Woman Couldn't Live on Food Provided by Brother, a Rheumatic

Starved on a vegetarian menu, Miss Alice Woods, forty-four years old, No. 5 Worcester place, South End, was taken to the City Hospital suffering from malnutrition and her name placed on the danger list.

So far as quantity was concerned, Miss Woods had had ample to keep any person in good health. But her diet since August 10, last, has at no time included meat.

Miss Woods told an agent of the City Health Unit summoned by her brother, William Woods, with whom she had been living, that she had been forced to accept her brother's hospitality.

Her brother, she said, was a vegetarian—not from choice but because of rheumatism. The prolonged vegetable diet undermined her health, she said.

BECAME WEAK.

In time, she said, she became so weakened that she was unable to go out in search of work.

Woods told the American his sister had had plenty of food; that is, food of a sort. He did not hesitate to say that meat was taboo in his home because of his rheumatism.

"My wife and I don't eat meat," he said, then in answer to a question hurriedly added, "of course we like meat, but I have suffered cruelly from rheumatism and I have been told that I will never be well if I eat meat."

WORKED UNSTEADILY.

"But there has always been plenty of bread, butter and milk in the house, and there was plenty for Alice to have all she wanted.

"She's been out of work for a long time. She used to work as a maid, but recently she has been unable to find employment.

"Then her health began to fail. I noticed that she was unsteady on her feet when she tried to walk and I became alarmed. I telephoned the City Health Unit. They sent a doctor to the house and he ordered Alice removed to the City Hospital."

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

This home made mixture will stop the most stubborn cough and is fine for chest colds and acute catarrh. Children love it.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make half a pint—that's all there is to it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made cough mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

Any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

PRINCE DOESN'T KNOW IF HE IS ENGAGED

Danish King's Cousin Arrives In U. S. and Evades Questions About Miss Green

New York, Jan. 30.—Prince Viggo of Denmark, cousin of King Christian, whose engagement to Miss Eleanor Green of New York was announced in court circles in Copenhagen last month and later denied by Miss Green's [illegible] do not know whether he is engaged or not, he said today on his arrival on the Majestic.

Eleanor Green

The Prince is on his way to Ottawa to attend the wedding, February 11 of his brother, Prince Eric, and Miss Lois Frances Booth.

The Prince, a tall, slender young fellow, seemed extremely nervous as the big liner warped into her dock and he anxiously scanned the crowd gathered on the pier. Miss Green was not there to greet him, but he was met by Prince Christian of Hesse, a close friend.

Prince Viggo said he didn't want to discuss his reported engagement to Miss Green, who is the daughter of Dr. James O. Green and a granddaughter of the late Peter Cooper. He was perfectly willing to admit, however, that Prince Eric was "officially" engaged, and explained that in order to marry a commoner his brother had necessarily renounced his right of succession to the Danish throne.

He evaded direct reply to a question if he himself had renounced his rights of succession, but said:

"I never thought of being a king."

A reporter showed him a newspaper in which it was announced that Miss Green was planning to hold a reception for him Friday.

He took the paper eagerly, scanned it for a moment and said:

"That will be very nice."

The Prince said he would remain in New York until February 8, three days before the wedding, but would not say where he would stop except that it would be on Lexington avenue. Dr. Green's home is on Lexington avenue.

CHALLENGE HEFLIN IN LAND FRAUD CASE

Brownsville, Tex., Jan. 30.—Challenging Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, to press his resolution, introduced in the United States Senate Monday, in which it was charged that an effort was made in 1921 "to stifle an inquiry into land frauds in Texas, R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman for Texas, today declared Mr. Heflin was actuated by the "lowest of political motives."

"I challenge Senator Heflin to press the resolution," said Mr. Creager. "I do not believe he introduced it with any intention of ever having an investigation as to whether any Cabinet officer had been improperly influenced or that I had sought to improperly influence them."

$74,940 SHORTAGE IN BANK; ARREST DUE

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 30.—Discovery of a shortage of $74,940 in the funds of the People's Bank of McKeesport, Pa., was announced by the State banking department today. Peter G. Cameron, State secretary of banking, said a warrant has been issued for the arrest of James M. Baker, an employe.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this home-made cough syrup. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. It tastes good, never spoils and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

ROBBED OF $250 IN SIGHT OF POLICE

B. & A. Conductor Held Up at the Point of a Gun in West Springfield

Springfield, Jan. 30.—Within a stone's throw of the West Springfield police station three bandits today drove up alongside Thomas A. Rioux of No. 47 Lathrop street, West Springfield, in a touring car and robbed him of $250.

Two of the men left the car and levelled guns at Rioux, while the third remained at the wheel of the car, ready to "step on it."

Rioux is a conductor on the Boston & Albany Railroad. He had finished working and was on his way home. He had no chance to resist, but when the thieves sped away, he ran to the police station and gave the alarm.

A police department automobile searched for the men but they made good their escape. Rioux gave the registration number of the bandit car.

SPRINGFIELD MAN ROBBED OF $250

Springfield, Jan. 30.—Joseph T. Rioux, a carpenter, of West Springfield, reported to the police that early today he was held up by an armed man and robbed of $250 as he was approaching his home. He said an automobile stopped near him and one of the men presented a pistol, demanding his money, which Rioux gave without resistance. The other man remained in the car.

WOMAN ILL, TRIES TO DIE BY GAS

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 30.—Mrs. Joseph Poisson, 52 years old is dying at the Sacred Heart Hospital following an attempt to commit suicide. She was found today near a gas stove, two jets of which were open. Mrs. Poisson has been in ill health for some time.

ACTORS HAD TO STUDY HISTORY FOR ROLES

Cast in "Little Old New York" Picked for Resemblance to Characters

One of the difficult tasks in the filming of "Little Old New York," starring Marion Davies, which is showing at the Park Theatre, was to [illegible] for the screen the character [illegible] of the [illegible] as Robert Fulton, Washington Irving, Fitz Green Halleck, Henry Brevoort, Commodore Vanderbilt, John Jacob Astor, Delmonico and others who appear through the photoplay.

The players [illegible] selected had to spend weeks studying the characters of the men of yesteryear whom they were to impersonate. Andrew Dillon, for instance, applied himself to the task of giving a faithful impersonation of John Jacob Astor. Dillon spent many days in the Public Library reading biographies and sketches of his character, with the [illegible] said to give a [illegible] of the original. [illegible] is all that one [illegible] Robert Fulton and Sam Hardy make a splendid Cornelius Vanderbilt.

The others who have won praises for their portrayals of Gotham's early pioneers in "Little Old New York" are Mahlon Hamilton as Washington Irving, Norval Keedwell as Fitz Green Halleck, George Barraud as Henry Brevoort, and Charles Judels as Delmonico.

'PAT' O'DAY MIXES IT UP WITH URCHINS

SCENE FROM "OLD NEW YORK"

"Pat" (Marion Davies) thought for a moment that several teeth had been knocked out after attempting to mix it up in a rough and tumble with several youngsters in the neighborhood, the while Larry Delevan (Harrison Ford) and his servant, Reilly, (Charles Kennedy) gaze after her fleeing maltreaters.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic Coughs and Persistent Colds Lead to Serious Lung Trouble. You Can Stop Them Now With Creomulsion an Emulsified Creosote That Is Pleasant to Take.

Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

CHARLES RAY IN PILGRIM ROLE OF JOHN ALDEN

'Courtship of Myles Standish' at Tremont Temple Arouses Enthusiasm

Almost within the shadows of the final resting place of those hardy Pilgrims who brought New England's first government to Plymouth Rock in 1620, a capacity audience witnessed one of the screen's most elaborate spectacles depicting the adventures of the Pilgrim fathers last evening.

"The Courtship of Myles Standish," featuring Charles Ray as John Alden, opened an indefinite engagement at Tremont Temple before an audience that was at once critical and enthusiastic.

MAYFLOWER IN FILM.

The picture, the biggest Charles Ray production ever attempted, bears an unusual significance for Boston, for it is the first screen portrayal of the tempestuous voyage of the Mayflower, the landing of the Pilgrims and gives an intimate record of their daily lives and customs.

The story on which the picture is based is Henry W. Longfellow's poem, which is known to every Boston school child.

The role of John Alden, in Longfellow's poem and in the picture, is largely a negative one, presenting but few opportunities for aggressive action on the part of the star. But Mr. Ray plays the part of Alden as it exists in the popular imagination and as it should be played.

FINELY CAST.

The cast is said to be one of the largest in number of principals used in a motion picture, and were evidently chosen with great care to fidelity in representing the appearance of the Pilgrim leaders, as well as to obtain histrionic ability.

Enid Bennett handles the role of Priscilla Mullins in a manner that can leave nothing to be desired, as well as E. Alyn Warren as Myles Standish. Nor can Sam De Grasse escape without a compliment for his interpretation of William John Carver. The many other roles, too long to mention, are likewise filled admirably.

Scenically, the picture is magnificently complete, having supreme entertainment value, with punch and thrills galore, and more than that, a great patriotic story.

Paris.—The indefatigable helicopterist, the Marquis Pescara, succeeded in breaking his own record for a sustained flight. He kept in the air 10 minutes 33 3-5 seconds, covering 1,000 yards.

BUTLER BLOCKS POLITICIANS IN WAR ON CRIME

Philadelphia Backs Him Up in Case of Lieutenant He Had Reduced to Ranks

Philadelphia, Jan. 30.—Brigadier-General Smedley D. Butler, director of public safety, has emerged victorious in his first encounter with a group of politicians who sought to intercede in behalf of a police lieutenant demoted because of alleged inefficiency during the director's latest offensive against vice and crime.

In a terse and emphatic manner, General Butler told the politicians that he was boss of the police and that any sign of political interference would result immediately in his resignation and return to the Marine Corps.

After a conference with Mayor Kendrick regarding the matter, the General announced today that the Mayor had upheld his action. "The Mayor's a good boy," he said. "He's right back of me in this rotten job."

STEEL IS SOLD UP AROUND 4 POINTS

U. S. Steel opened up 2⅛ on the strength of its extra dividend declaration of 50 cents in trading on the New York Stock Exchange. Steel then reacted, but later advanced to 1707, up 3¼. Steel was at its highest since last April.

Pan-American rose 1⅛ and the B 4 before reacting.

General Electric started up 3 points. Sears-Roebuck rose 2½. There were gains of 2 or more points by Baldwin Atlantic Refining, Bethlehem Steel, Savage, Gulf States, Phillips and Republic.

Davison Chemical, so-called "mystery stock," started up nearly 5 points, then lost most of its gain.

American Woolen common sagged over 3. National Lead lowered 3, as did also Houston. Sinclair was fractionally higher. Lead dropped on announcement by president of company that no dividend raise had been considered.

Seasoned dividend paying rails were in good demand, especially Atchison, New York Central and Union Pacific, all of which advanced a point or more. Call money opened at 4½ per cent.

In Boston Stock Exchange trading Edison was off 3, which was 4 under yesterday's top.

Canadian dollar was 97.687 cents.

N. E. MUTUAL IS PROSPERING

Eightieth annual report of the directors, a statement of which appears in this issue, was presented to the members of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company at its annual meeting at the home office in Boston.

Assets are $140,327,320, an increase of $12,360,532; liabilities $131,160,785, an increase of $10,182,716, and net surplus $9,166,535, an increase of $2,247,816, thus placing the company in the strongest financial position it has ever held.

The rapid growth of the business of the company during the last five years has made necessary a change in executive responsibility. Alfred D. Foster retires from the presidency, and now becomes Chairman of the Board of Directors, and Chairman of the Finance Committee and the Senior Vice-President, Daniel F. Appel, succeeds him as president.

Foster's active service with the company began in 1880 as law clerk. Four years later he was first associate counsel with the Hon. William C. Endicott, upon whose retirement to become a member of President Cleveland's Cabinet, Mr. Foster was made counsel. He has been a director since 1887. He was elected vice-president in 1893 and president in 1908.

During his administration as president the growth of the institution is well shown by the increase in assets from $44,182,875 to $140,327,320, and in insurance in force from $178,872,820 to $719,421,634.

Mr. Appel comes to the presidency with long experience in both the agency field and the home office. In 1885 he was appointed general agent for the company in Indiana. He served in this capacity for ten years, when he was called to the home office to become superintendent of agencies. In 1905 he was elected secretary.

Three years later he was advanced to the vice-presidency at the same time that Mr. Foster became president. Hence the two officers have been intimately associated for almost forty years.

ALFRED REEVES, general manager of National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, says at least 4,000,000 more motor vehicles will be used this year.

MASSACHUSETTS LIGHTING common failed to pay dividend from 1918 to June 1922, it is explained because of quick rising costs due to war without compensating increases in service rates.

HAMILTON Mfg. of Lowell has passed dividend due at this time.

STELLA DALLAS ❧ By Olive Higgins Prouty

New and Intensely Interesting Serial of a Marriage of an Educated Man to an Untutored Woman

HOW THE STORY STARTED

Stella Dallas and her husband, Stephen, do not live together. They have a daughter, thirteen years old, named Laurel, who stays most of the year with the mother. They visit a Summer hotel in New England, where the other guests look askance at the painted, overdressed elder woman. The time has come for Laurel to visit her father in New York. He meets her at the station and takes her to a hotel. She goes to visit Mrs. Morrison. The story now goes back to the marriage of Stephen and Stella at Milhampton. Stella starts a flirtation with Alfred Munn. The leading women of the town begin to drop her. Stephen, deciding he can never go back to her, starts a divorce suit. The story then goes back to Mrs. Morrison's marriage to her aged millionaire suitor. The latter dies and Stephen confesses his love to the widow. Stella and Laurel get in with a society set at a Summer hotel and Laurel goes canoeing with Richard Grosvenor. Laurel overhears remarks about her mother and they leave the hotel. Stella has a plan.

OF what importance was money to a woman who was willing to pay for her child's happiness with the child's love if it menaced that happiness? And communication, even secret communication, would menace it.

It was far safer that she, Helen herself, should remain in doubt as to Stella's hiding-place. It was necessary to be so very honest with Laurel. Helen, too, must not know but that Stella was beyond call in some far country. She must not allow herself [illegible] to look for the shadow again. [illegible] not tell any one about it. [illegible] should not be defeated, [illegible] could help it.

[illegible]ers were not as protec[illegible]e shadow. That same eve[illegible] few hundred miles away, [illegible]ty and exquisite drawing-[illegible] Milhampton, Massachu[illegible] four women in dainty and [illegible]ite gowns stood before an [illegible] fire, stirring black coffee with gold spoons in tiny porcelain [illegible] Their motions were as [illegible]tty and exquisite as the room, [illegible] their gowns. So, too, were [illegible] voices and their accents. [illegible]hey chatted lightly, inconse[illegible]ently, touching now one subject, [illegible]ow another, like humming-birds passing from one flower to another, whiling the time away in as amusing a manner as possible till the men should join them for bridge.

"Oh, yes," sighed Phyllis, "one sees the name of Laurel Dallas in the New York society columns frequently now. The new Mrs. Dallas is doing her best for the child. I call it awfully decent."

"And the child is really very pretty," Mrs. Kay Bird contributed. "That helps. There is not a suggestion of her mother in her."

"How fortunate! What has become of that dreadful woman, anyhow?" asked Rosamond.

"Oh! Haven't you heard, my dear?" Mrs. Kay Bird raised slim bare shoulders in surprise. "Myrtle, haven't you told Rosamond you saw the poor thing in New York last time you were down?"

Rosamond placed her empty coffee-cup on the mantel and curled up cozily in a corner of the cushioned divan.

"Tell me first, please, about the divorce. You know I was in Europe all last year. I didn't get a bit of the gossip, and there was no account of it in the papers sent me."

"There was no account of it in any of the papers," Mrs. Kay Bird informed her. "Stephen Dallas obtained his divorce without even a flutter of a struggle, which does not surprise any of us who know the facts. We agree with the former Mrs. Dallas, it would have been very unwise for her to contest her husband's charges."

"Oh, did he make charges?"

"That's the usual proceeding, my dear."

"And what were they?"

Shrugs. Soft laughter.

"And the child," Phyllis added, "was put immediately into the custody of her father."

"Oh, dear! You never can tell what a woman is at the core, can you?" deplored Rosamond. "Why, when we first knew Stella Dallas she didn't seem really bad, though she always was awfully ordinary, of course. Even after that time you saw her at Re[illegible]'s Beach, Myrtle, I couldn't believe she'd [illegible] fallen so low as that. I [illegible] mistaken."

[illegible] Rosamond about New York, Myrtle," said Mrs. Kay Bird.

Myrtle placed her coffee-cup on the mantel, too, and extending a slender hand to a silver box near by, selected a cigarette.

"I saw Stella Dallas in New York, Rosamond," she announced impressively. "I saw her down near Washington square. I was down that way seeing a friend of mine who has the most [illegible] studio in an [illegible]. I saw Stella Dallas with [illegible] Munn [illegible] quite [illegible]."

"[illegible]"

"It was not a pretty sight, I assure you. The Munn man was intoxicated, I think. Anyway, she had to help him walk. I won't say she was [illegible], because I don't know [illegible] she was, but she [illegible]. And she has [illegible] terribly [illegible]."

TELL THIS AT DINNER

Bobby was of an inquiring turn of mind, but mother usually managed to answer his questions.

"Why does daddy go to town every day?" he asked on one occasion.

"To work, so that you and I can have good dinners," mother replied promptly.

Next day, as Bobby sat down to dinner, he looked disparagingly at the fare provided, then turned an accusing eye on father.

"You didn't do much today, did you?" he remarked.

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

DR. ALFRED W. BELLAMY of the University of Chicago says that "educated women do not marry." Whereupon a discussion arose in his classes which centred about the argument that "educated women know too much."

BUT IS ANY WOMAN TRULY EDUCATED WHO HASN'T MARRIED?

What is education at any rate? Is it the process of learning the printed word, or is it the study of LIFE—the assimilating and harmonizing of the qualities which make Human Nature, and, in combination, our whole social structure? Can any woman, however learned in books, be said to be educated who does not know Men? Can any woman claim to really know Men who has not married one of them? I doubt it.

"Educated women know too much to get married," says Dr. Bellamy's students. In other words, having taken courses in philosophy, biology or chemistry, why should Highbrow Helen waste her time picking up some careless Henry's soiled collars, emptying his ash trays, or cooking his steaks to a turn? Of course, if the drudgery and boredom could be eliminated from marriage it might be worth Helen's consideration. But men being Men, why should she waste her cultivated brain and valuable time on them? Here's why. Because brains, however cultured, and time, however, valuable, have no significance until they are dedicated to actual boredom and drudgery. It is the very untidiness and discomfort of the marriage state which Helen most needs for her education. When Henry drops his old pipe on her lace-frilled bureau scarf, does it merely signify that Henry is a disorderly pig? It does not. It signifies that Henry has a perspective which reaches beyond lace-frilled bureau scarfs. When he prefers a dirty, smelly, fishing trip to a symphony concert, does it mean that Henry has no beauty in his soul? Far from it. It means that Henry can appreciate beauty which Helen misses—the beauty of natural life, the life which he must sometimes lead if he would render strong and normal service to society.

Helen needs that perspective, she needs that appreciation of natural life. She needs his wholesome earthiness to balance the fussiness and pettiness of her feminine mind. She needs Henry's carelessness and untidiness as much as he needs her daintiness and carefulness. She needs these things in her mental reactions, in her moral adjustments, in her physical functioning. No amount of feminine society or book wisdom can supply that vital male influence as effectively and surely as marriage supplies it.

THE WOMAN WHO HASN'T MARRIED ISN'T AN EDUCATED WOMAN, THOUGH SHE CARRIES A WHOLE ALPHABET OF DEGREES AFTER HER NAME. ONE CRANKY MAN AT BREAKFAST WILL TEACH YOU MORE ABOUT ADJUSTING YOURSELF TO LIFE THAN A DOZEN UNIVERSITIES.

IN Winter time a tree's a tree, few fellows near it linger while sleet drapes all the scenery and frost nips toe and finger. However fair that tree may look, they scarcely pause, admiring but hasten to that ingle-nook where they resume their firing. As well as at [illegible] you know that speed without accuracy amounts to [illegible].

So, because you want to be accurate, you keep from stumbling and finally [illegible] it to become [illegible], dependable mechanical performer at your chosen line.

But do you know that if you get into a class by yourself, at the very top, your work must represent soul?

The accurate, speedy mechanic gets a larger salary or wage than the slow, inaccurate one, and it is individual quality which counts big.

Your individuality is different from any other somebody and unless you can show this in your work, you have not gotten to the top, which is possible for you.

How get it?

By thinking as you work, from all sides, as it were, and if your speed is the right kind, you can put personality into your work.

ABOUT YOUR BEAUTY

By Maria Jeritza,

Famous Prima Donna of Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.

SALT—just plain, every-day salt—does not at first thought seem to possess any great interest or importance as an aid to beauty or otherwise.

Yet salt from time immemorial has been so highly prized by mankind that among primitive peoples and in the Orient a deep religious and social significance still attaches to its use.

The Greeks and Romans considered it a necessary ingredient of their sacrificial cakes. In the [illegible] ages a dish of salt on the table was the sharp dividing line between ordinary folk and persons of distinction. An honored guest was always placed above the salt.

Animals prize salt because they need it in their diet. Where you find a deposit of salt in rock formation you will generally find wild animal trails leading to it.

It is not surprising in view of all these facts to discover that salt, common and easily available as it is, holds high rank among aids to beauty.

Of course it gives needed seasoning to food. But we are advised to use it sparingly in this respect, as the human system needs only a small amount of salt. It is said most persons salt their food too much.

Salt is a cleanser of undeniable value.

Try brushing your teeth with it once a day instead of using powder or paste twice each day then dip it in salt and you will have a safe and effectual cleanser for your teeth and mouth. Then when you rinse your brush, pack it in salt. This will give it a thorough, antiseptic cleansing.

There is no better mouth wash for children or adults than warm water with a pinch of salt added. And the same mixture makes an excellent gargle. Both mouth wash and gargle are beautifying because they are cleansing to the mouth and throat and cleanliness is the foundation of health and beauty.

Do you wish to vary your daily hot or tepid bath? Then to the tubful of water add a pound of table salt and a dash of violet ammonia. This makes a deli[illegible] bath mixture.

Most of us know from [illegible] ence the invigorating, refr[illegible] effect of sea bathing. But [illegible] you ever tried rubbing ha[illegible] of table salt on your body b[illegible] jumping into your tepid morning bath?

Boiling water	1 quart
Sea salt	5 ounces
Alcohol	½ pint
Spirits of camphor	2 ounces
Spirits of ammonia	2 ounces

A pinch of salt added to an eyeglass of cold water makes an invigorating, cleansing eyewash.

Warm salt water is very comforting to tired feet, and will help to soothe away tired lines from your face by resting your feet.

There are ever so many more good beauty formulas with a salt basis, but these few I am sure will convince you that it is wise to keep a small jar of salt on your toilet shelf.

The Listener

There seems to be no limit to the scope of diversity in entertainment through the air. For example, the other night I heard the following within an hour: Two grand operas, a banquet, three dance orchestras, a talk on the politics of India, a joint debate on religion from a public platform, a military band, a pair of vaudeville performers, a musical comedy, an organ recital, a band of forty-five boys playing harmonicas, and a youth playing a carpenter's saw with a violin bow, in addition to the usual instrumental and vocal soloists.

The announcer at KDKA, East Pittsburgh, personifies politeness itself. Recently when his station broadcast a banquet from the William Penn Hotel, the announcer came "on the air" and apologized to his listeners for being unable to let them enjoy the "eats" as well as the speeches and fun.

I wonder how many of the dancers crowding our dance halls owe their instruction to Arthur Murray, whose dancing lessons have been broadcast by WOR? We guess he has more pupils than Professor Fairchild, who gave the course on Browning.

WINCHESTER READ STORE IS SOLD

The Winchester Retail Stores Company announce that the lease on its stores at No. 361 Washington street, formerly operated as the William Read Sons Company and more lately as the Winchester-Read Store, has been sold. The company plans to continue the operation of its Tremont street store as heretofore and preparations are being made to enlarge the selling space of this store to accommodate the additional merchandise that may be brought over from the Washington street store.

UNAWARE OF CHARGE COTTON CUT PLANNED

Washington, Jan. 30.—The Department of Justice is without information concerning a charge that the International Federation of Spinners are trying to effect a curtailment of the use of cotton, Acting Attorney-General Seymour today advised Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia. The Senator had presented a statement from a New York cotton dealer saying: "Well founded reports say the Federation has been putting out feelers among American mills and that the plan has been laid before high government officials."

$1,500 BLAZE STARTS IN GINTER CO. STORE

Damage estimated at 1,500 resulted early today when fire, starting in the basement of the Ginter Company store, No. 1438 Commonwealth avenue, Allston, swept through to the delicatessen store at No. 1440. The fire was discovered by Patrolman Hayes shortly after 3 o'clock.

AWARDING RADIO PLAY REVIEW PRIZES

PRESENTATION AT WNAC STUDIO

In this group are the three winners of the prizes for the best reviews of "Up She Goes," as broadcast from the Wilbur Theatre by WNAC, the Shepard Stores. Left to right, Virginia Gilchrist of No. 78 West Chestnut street, Wakefield, winner of the third prize; John Shepard, 3d.; Nancy Welford, star of the show, presenting the prizes, and J. L. Pierce of No. 236 Bay State Road, Boston, first prize winner. Inset, Mrs. Nan Armstrong Smith of No. 81 Pearl street, Somerville, winner of the second prize.

TWO TIED FOR THIRD PRIZE IN CONTEST

The following letters tied for third place in the contest for the best review on the recent broadcasting of "Up She Goes" from the Shubert-Wilbur Theatre. They were written by Virginia Gilcreast, of No. 78 West Chestnut street, Wakefield, and Albert Ward, of No. 530 Druelly street, Fall River.

Dear Mr. Contest Man:

Mother heard "Up She Goes" on the radio and as I had been good all vacation she had daddy get tickets for us, at your theatre. I think it was wonderful. I laughed so hard, I cried. I think Ella and Frank were funny. But I just love Alice and Albert. Albert made a big lump come in my throat when he sang "Lady Luck" I was so sorry for him. I am ten and that was my very first play. I wanted to see it over again.

(Signed) Virginia Gilcreast.

78 W. Chestnut street, Wakefield, Mass.

No. 530 Druelly Street,
Fall River, Mass.,
January 14, 1924.

Dear Sir: The musical comedy called "Up She Goes," playing at the Wilbur Theatre, Boston, Mass., was certainly a scream and would certainly relieve a bad case of blues. The performance was well played and all parts of the play was a great treat and great credit is certainly due to the players of the company for their skill in rendering this great musical comedy, "Up She Goes."

It was pleasing to me to see so many faces in the audience that could not keep their faces still for laughing, some laughing until tears came rolling down their faces, also many of young women with blushing faces who were with their male friends listening to Albert Bennett and Alice Cook, who are in love with each other, which is certainly funny when he is talking about the new home which he calls his "love nest."

The part that found a hit to me was when Alice Cok wanted to know how old Albert Bennett was, also where he had been and what he had seen, his reply was, I am 30 years of age, I have been everywhere, have seen everything but my thirty-first birthday.

The Cook family in this play certainly do run thinks while it last in this great production, "Up She It is a terrible tangle while it lasts, and the part of Frank Andrews and Ella Mayer, who are not in love with each other at first, is certainly funny. Frank Andrtws is very funny, saying a lot of funny things about marriage and expressing his opinion of men who marry a whole family. His method is as succesful as it is unique. He does not force any of his lines, but he puts them over in away that make the audience shriek with mirth, a good singer and dancer which supplies much of the delight of the performance.

The play is one fine musical comedy and the intire cast is up to the minute in this musical comedy, "Up She Goes," and is worthy of praise with fine singing and dancing to every one's pleasure.

Respectfully yours,
ALBERT WARD.

Winners in Super Contest Given Tomorrow

In spite of the fact that conditions for long distance reception were unfavorable throughout the week of the contest, there were many good reports entered in the contest.

Radio Queries

Radio Editor:

Why don't I get longer distance on my Super, WSB being my limit? I am using four UV 201 A tubes.

Mexico, Me. L. B. Richardson.

I would suggest that you use a UV 200 for the Detector tube, and I think you will find your distance increased.

Radio Editor:

Would like formula for low resistance soldering flux? Also my coils don't take the high wave lengths with .00025 mfd. condensers.

So. Boston. Mr. J. C.

Use two-thirds alcohol to one part resin. Your condensers should have a little higher capacity. About .00027 to .0003 mfd. is right.

Radio Editor:

Ralph Kimball.

Bridgeport, Conn.

Four tubes is all that is needed. Don't shield your panel.

Radio Editor:

The radio freq. tube on my Super does not seem to have any control or effect on the set. What is the trouble?

C. F. Adams.

Providence, R. I.

Your radio freq. coils are not working. You probably have an open circuit or a loose contact.

Radio Editor:

My Super set oscillates, and I can't seem to make it stop.

Somerville, Mass. R. B. T.

If the set was made correctly you should not have any trouble with oscillation. Try different values of leaks and bi pass condensers, unless you know how to compensate for them. Bunch all leads except Grid and Plate.

Complete Data on American Super in Booklet

The eagerly awaited booklet on the Boston American Super is on the way. It will be ready in a few days.

The booklet will have COMPLETE data on the construction and operation of these remarkable sets, including the Baby Super, the Super Dich, and the powerful Daddy Super.

There will be all the different hook-ups needed, full size panel layouts that can be used for templates for drilling the panels, photographs of completed sets showing arrangement of parts, instructions for winding the coils, and other features, all printed on high-grade paper.

Radio Receiving Conditions Tonight

According to the weather seers, Boston is in the middle of a large low-pressure area, which will make it easy for local and out-of-town radio fans to hear Canada and New England broadcasting stations tonight.

The high pressure area hovering over the South, Middle West and West, will make conditions poor for receiving their programs in Boston and vicinity.

SMUGGLING OF ALIENS STIRS DAVIS

Reaches Size of Organized Industry Rivaling Bootlegging, Secretary Says

Washington, Jan. 30 (I.N.S.)—Smuggling of aliens into the United States has now reached the proportions of an organized industry, second only to the bootlegging of liquor Secretary of Labor Davis declared today.

Conditions are such as to challenge the immediate attention of Congress, he said.

"The smuggling of aliens into this country is perhaps as prolific a source of revenue to those engaged in the traffic as is the bringing in of contraband liquor and narcotics," Davis asserted.

"With the great expanse of unprotected sea coast and land border and the lack of sufficient officers and facilities at the disposition of the immigration to cope with the situation, the smugglers experience little difficulty in plying their trade."

MANY GROUPS AT WORK.

Reliable information has been received by Secretary Davis to the effect that there are now in existence numerous far-reaching organizations that take the alien from his home in Europe, secure a pasport for him—a fraudulent one if necessary—purchase his steamship passage, arrange for his entry in Cuba, Canada or Mexico, and later conduct him by various underground routes into the United States, all for a fixed price.

"It must not be understood that no effort is made to stop this illegal practice," the secretary said. "To the very limit of its ability the Immigration Department has sought and deported those unlawfully here and prosecutions have been instituted, and in a great many cases convictions have been obtained against those responsible for participating in the illegal entry."

CARDINAL O'CONNELL ARRIVES AT ALGIERS

Algiers, Jan. 30.—Cardinal O'Connell, who arrived here, offered a prayer of thanksgiving at the Cathedral Notre Dame de L'Afrique. He visited the local clergy, walked in the botanical gardens and took a drive through the city and suburbs. He met Monsignor Enard, Archbishop of Ottawa, Canada, an old friend, who is on his way to Rome.

YOUTH DROPS DEAD AIDING STRICKEN MAN

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 30.—Excited at seeing John Falter, an employe of the Public Service Company, at work in his house, fall unconscious from the effects of coal gas fumes, Edward Holden, sixteen, ran from the house to summon aid and then fell dead from heart trouble.

New Crude Oil Raise

Pittsburgh, Jan. 30.—Another advance in the price of Pennsylvania crude oil was announced today when the market opened. Twenty-five cents a barrel was added to the best grades, and fifteen cents to cheaper grades.

EXPOSURE OF SOME STOCK SWINDLES

Beware of the Glib-Tongued, Well-Dressed and Prosperous Stranger

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

(Extracts from address delivered by the writer to radio fans from Station WNAC, the Shepard Stores, Boston.)

If a stock swindler calls at your door, be sure that he will not be a poorly clad, suspicious-looking individual or a man whose style of conversation will awaken your distrust.

They don't hire that kind of man to peddle worthless stocks.

They hire men whose appearance is pleasing, radiating prosperity and who can talk like Demosthenes and Cicero rolled into one.

One method the stock swindlers employ is to secure a list of the stockholders of some prominent company whose securities are widely held, like those, for example, of the telephone companies.

GOOD-BY TO DOLLARS.

Then they send the glib-tongued pedlar to the prospective victim with a false story that the dividend is in danger of being passed or reduced. He suggests a change into some worthless stock that is being unloaded on the public. If the intended victim is persuaded to make the exchange, he or she can say good-by to the hard-earned dollars.

Good stocks are seldom peddled from door to door. That is something it may pay you well to remember.

Some of you may recall the recent flood of worthless oil stocks. Reliable oil men have estimated that Dr. Cook of North Pole fame and his fellow oil sharks cost American investors around $100,000,000.

I happen to know from some of the victims that many of these handsomely engraved sheets of paper were sold in New England.

Another swindling method employed is to hire an office and a corps of solicitors who call their victims over the telephone, particularly by long distance. It is remarkable how easily some people can be induced to give up their money by the supposed flattery of these long-distance telephone calls.

WOMEN ARE WARNED.

An old swindling method is to get the list of shareholders in a dead or inactive company and to solicit them by circulars to give up money to participate in a so-called merger.

Forged endorsements are frequently employed to get people to buy stock in a swindling concern. The misuse of the names of prominent men in this way is very common and hard to detect unless the would-be buyer stops to investigate.

Women should be particularly on their guard against "the advising friend." The chances are that the supposed friend, even if sincere, is not an expert. You would not ordinarily go to a doctor for legal advice; you would not go to a lawyer for medical treatment. Remember that there are few people who successfully combine two professions.

Look out for the promoter who promises to carry you to riches through the development of a patent. He may believe he can do it, but your chances are not sufficiently large to interest even a professional gambler.

Don't let yourself be persuaded into buying on the swindling pedlar's declaration that he has sold some of the stock to his sister. This is an old story. If he had a sister she would probably be ashamed of him, and certainly too wise to buy his fake promotions.

So be warned. Do not buy before you investigate. The Financial Department, edited by the speaker, stands ever ready to warn you away from the frauds and to guide you into the best classes of investments.

BANDITS BEAT MAN IN CAMBRIDGE

The bandits escaped without obtaining any loot after a crowd gathered about them to witness the fight.

Many in Same Boat

Editor Boston American:

Nothing strange about the man arrested for selling cognac explaining he had been in this country but two weeks and didn't know we had prohibition. I can point out thousands who have been here for years and don't know to this day even the meaning of the word.

JACK DUNN.

A Way But No Will

Editor Boston American:

Despite the hue and cry of capitalists that the country cannot afford to pay a bonus to the soldiers, Senator Royal S. Copeland's bill proves beyond doubt there is a way not only to pay the bonus, but also adopt Secretary Mellon's tax reduction plan. It only goes to prove that only a little brain work is needed to meet both measures, and it emphasizes the fact that it is stubbornness on the part of capitalists rather than sound business sense.

GEORGE READ.

A Modern Mother

Editor Boston American:

Experience teaches me the old-fashioned mother is merely a matter of history. I am seventeen. My mother is a widow. She recently informed me she was soon to be married. I objected, believing the man she chose is not a gentleman. She then informed me it was up to me to get out and earn my living, as all the home would be needed in housing the two children of her intended husband. It would appear that love and the modern mother are strangers.

ELSIE.

Where Is the Farmer?

Editor Boston American:

We have been reading about the "Farmer-Manufacturers" Alliance. Looks splendid from the standpoint of millionaire manufacturers, but I fail to see the "farmer's" side of it. Probably a well-timed, "inspired" political effort financed from—pardon the insinuation! Put that in a class with anti-bonus propaganda, etc. After all the poor stupid farmer must be kept "in line," taught to stay in his place! Bravo! Swat the Farmer Laborites (I'm not one), swat La Follette, McAdoo, Ralston and all other thinking nuisances! Hurrah for Coolidge, Mellon, Wall street, etc. For a few "farmers" plus railroad and factory magnates compose an "alliance" which will be "invincible" till the votes are counted on the night of election.

Postal Salaries

Editor Boston American:

I am writing you in behalf of the postal clerks and carriers, hoping that you will assist them by favoring the Kelly bill, H. R. 4123, which is before Congress at the present time.

The Kelly bill fixes the first grade salary at $2,000; second grade, $2,200; third grade, $2,400; special clerk, first grade, $2,500, and second grade, $2,600.

This is the salary which we asked for four years ago and which Congress would not grant because living expenses were coming down, and four years more we have worked for an inadequate salary. Is the postal service going to be ruined by a wholesale hiring of the poorest class of help possible to get because of an inadequate salary, which a small increase in parcel post and a three-cent letter rate will put it on a self-sustaining basis? Can we expect to keep the postage rates as they were in 1892 and still maintain a modern postal service? Help us to put over the Kelly bill that we may live. We have been merely existing since the beginning of the World War.

THE HELPING HAND

Shoes and Dress

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a pair of woman's high shoes, tan, size 6½D that I would like to send to someone that could use them. Also a girl's dress size 18.

MRS. M. J.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Miss I. E. W., who will be grateful for the dress, and of Mrs. A. O., for the shoes.

Help for Woman

Editor Helping Hand:

I wonder if you could help a dear good woman I know. She is not well but takes in washings to dress her boys and has nothing left for herself. I think about size 38 would fit her. Her name is—

MRS. M. G. 4.

Boxes of Clothing

Editor Helping Hand:

I have sent P. O'C. of South Boston two boxes of clothing and a Christmas box also. Now if you will please send me a girl's address, I have several dresses and hats and a few other articles that will fit a girl ten years old. I will be glad to send them postpaid. Good luck to your Helping Hand for the coming year. I wish you all the luck in the world.

MRS. K. K.

Very sorry to have been nearly three weeks late in answering your kind letter, but it got mislaid some way. You have been sent the address of Mrs. A. M., a widow with five children to care for, one of whom is a girl ten. Thank you for this and your good wishes.

Had Pneumonia

Editor Helping Hand:

Can anyone help me out a little? I am a poor mother and have just got out of bed from penumonia and expect my eighth baby in about a month. As my husband earns small pay and had to stay home with the children and me while I was sick, I have no money to buy anything for the dear little stranger expected so soon. I wonder if some kind friend would have some warm things or some flannelette for me to make up. My other children are all girls but one, and can use most any size of dresses. My oldest is boy, age nine.

MRS. M. B. 5.

Clothes for Boy

Editor Helping Hand:

I have some things for a boy fourteen or fifteen years that are new. There is a pair of pants, new; two shirts, and a few pairs of stockings, which I will be glad to send to some one. I also have a warm overcoat in good condition, size about 40. I will give these things to you or to any address you send me.

MRS. B. S.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of a deserted mother, who has a boy fourteen years old, and of Mrs. W. H. A., whose husband is suffering from rheumatism and will be glad of a warm overcoat.

Thanks for Help

Editor Helping Hand:

I wish to thank you for getting me help. Mrs. S. made two trips to my home with a load each time of warm underclothes and useful things to be made over, also shoes for myself and coats for the children. Mrs. B. S. sent two bundles of children's dresses. I can't thank these people and you enough.

D. L.

Mother of Four

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a mother of four children expecting another in a few weeks. Perhaps some kind reader has some baby clothes. I have nothing ahead, as my husband has been out of work since October 15. I went to work doing day work, but had to give it up. My little boy needs shoes, size 1½. My boy twelve needs clothes very bad.

"Our fine God-fearing ancestors gave us the New England Conscience. Let us stop apologizing for it and turn it into an asset."

BOSTON AMERICAN
LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND
BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1924

Next Wednesday an article on the High Cost of Living in New England. How it affects the worker and industry.

Minute Men, Stop Apologizing for Your New England Conscience; Make It an Asset

Minute Men of 1924, what are you going to do for New England?

To place her in the sun of the world's trade and commerce; to bring to her the fruits of her natural and industrial heritage; not by capitalizing the products of her soil, the fruit of her looms, the output of her hands, the fish of her waters alone, but—

By taking advantage of the most famous of her treasures, her CONSCIENCE.

Today the third of this series of articles is devoted to the New England CONSCIENCE.

That is CONSCIENCE.

BUT, what is NEW ENGLAND CONSCIENCE?

It is a moral sense in the HIGHEST DEGREE. In other words, an ultra conscience, or a super conscience.

It is a conscience backed by the most sacred traditions in American history.

A conscience founded by the Pilgrims and, like the rock at Plymouth, has withstood the battering temptations of time and trade development.

It is today the same glorious treasure our honest God-fearing forefathers established and left us as a heritage; a CONSCIENCE that is famous throughout the land.

Which, you Minute Men of 1924, brings us to just what we want to tell you today. It is this: STOP APOLOGIZING FOR YOUR NEW ENGLAND CONSCIENCE. MAKE IT YOUR GREATEST ASSET. USE THE NEW ENGLAND CONSCIENCE by BACKING EVERY PRODUCT OF NEW ENGLAND, EVERY MANUFACTURED ARTICLE OF NEW ENGLAND, WITH THE SLOGAN:

"BACKED BY THE NEW ENGLAND CONSCIENCE."

Or, if you please, address the buyers of the world as follows:

"LET THE NEW ENGLAND CONSCIENCE BE YOUR GUIDE."

Your boy knows it in school, he lives it on the gridiron.

And—what is more inspiring—IT BECOMES PART AND PARCEL OF THE NEWCOMER TO THESE ROCKY SHORES. He gets the inspiration of his environment.

His offspring will grow up with it in their blood as you inherited it from your father, his father and his father's father.

In putting this New England Conscience into the sun you do not merely trade in a name.

Think of silver and you think of the magic word "Sterling," which means it is good.

Think of gold and there follows "14 or 18 carat." Magic words and numerals. They mean the gold too is GOOD.

Think of New England, we would have you Minute Men arrange, and the world will think of a CONSCIENCE which too would mean all that is GOOD, HONEST and WORTH WHILE.

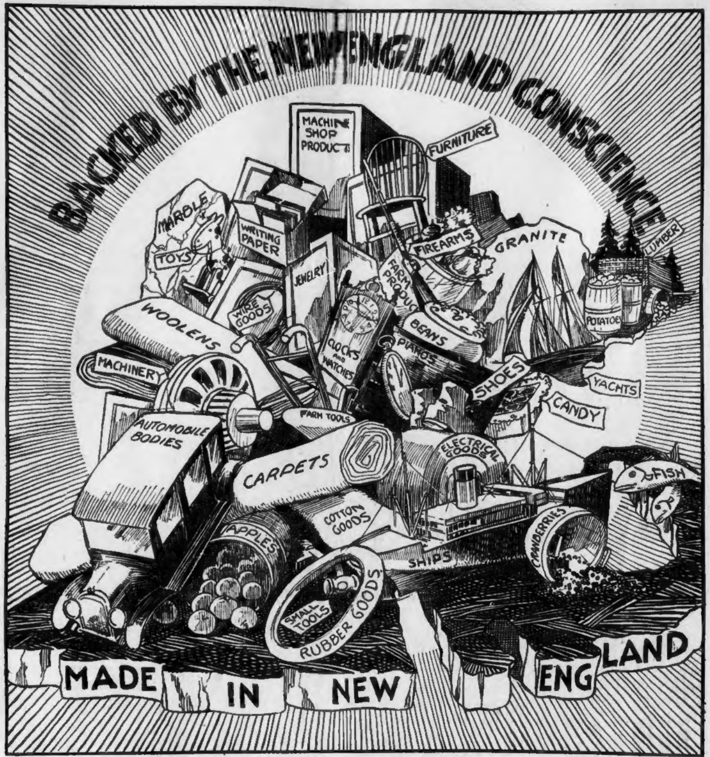
It is just a quiet sort of paper mill, homely, comfortable enough to look upon. Scattered throughout the land are larger paper mills.

Yet the mill in Dalton makes the paper used by the United States Government for bonds and banknotes. Woven into its stock is a fine silk thread. This thread typifies the spirit of the New England Conscience that gives this paper its soul.

It is woven by a NEW ENGLAND CONSCIENCE.



There is a lesson for New England's Minute Men of 1924 in results accomplished by Californians. Let us see what they did. In 1909-10 the California Fruit Growers' Exchange—organized through the Department of Agriculture to help citrus fruit growers—shipped 33,534 car loads of citrus fruit out of the State. This was 58.5 per cent. of all citrus fruit shipments from the State during that time. In 1922-23 this percentage increased to 75.8.

The Exchange today markets more than two and one-half times as much citrus fruit as was previously shipped by the State of California.

One other point about the California campaign. The Exchange wanted to create a new field for orange and lemon sales. The result of investigation was an "extractor" for soda fountains. In two years 12,000 "extractors" have been sold and 1,500 car loads of citrus fruit are being sold annually in an entirely new field.

There is just as great a field for New England products.

Let us stop apologizing and put our greatest assets to work.

So, it BAFFLES COUNTERFEITING.

What did Government officials say when they sampled papers from all the great mills of the country?

They said what we tell you Minute Men of 1924 to tell the buyers of the world—

LET THE NEW ENGLAND CONSCIENCE BE YOUR GUIDE.

For they found in that paper HONESTY and VALUE.

The best New England could produce was there. As it happened then and happens every day in everything we offer for sale—it is the BEST that CAN BE PRODUCED.

If it had not been the best paper the Counterfeiters could have DUPLICATED it.

But, that paper stands out today like a thousand and one things manufactured, grown or produced in New England, THEY CANNOT BE DUPLICATED. They look the same, but are minus the life and soul that adds service and satisfaction to their owner.

Because——

They are backed by the NEW ENGLAND CONSCIENCE.

In California with little to start on but sunshine progressive business men put a halo around the PRUNE and built a golden diadem of ORANGES.

All they had to work on was SUNSHINE. So being wise men they CAPITALIZED THE SUNSHINE.

They made the prune "Sun Sweet." And overnight it ceased to be just a boarding house staple.

They had their oranges "Sun Kissed." Overnight their oranges began to adorn the breakfast plate of the nation and took the place of lemonade at the counter or roadside.

What could they do with the grapes when the wine industry shut down? The raisin solved the problem and overnight the raisin became "Sun Maid." And there isn't a grocery in the country it seems where "Sun Maid" doesn't smile down upon you from her shelved carton of raisins.

We live in a land of Magic.

The world moves over a fairy strip. They are being fed with products wrapped in the golden glow of words magically wrought.

Step in, you Minute Men of 1924; step in the procession that moves over that rug; step in and shout to the world your goods and your products and silence the sellers who purvey words alone with this thunderous line—

LET THE NEW ENGLAND CONSCIENCE BE YOUR GUIDE.

What has New England to offer the world?

Codfish known the world over as "Cape Cod Turkey."

Lobsters, crabs, clams and other fish so toothsome one only has to be forced to live in the West for a spell to know what he is missing.

Woolen goods.

Cotton prints.

Ginghams.

Silks, satins, writing paper, boots, shoes, slippers, carpets, rubber footwear, watches, jewelry, combs, hairpins, toys, games, wire goods, small tools, foundry products, machine shop products, candies, chocolate, cocoa, pianos, ships, firearms, electrical machinery, electrical supplies and——

A hundred and more products of soil, loom and mill which are born of THE NEW ENGLAND CONSCIENCE and should be stood on a pedestal with the SUNSHINE of California.

LET THE NEW ENGLAND CONSCIENCE BE YOUR GUIDE.

Why are Boston beans made in all parts of the country and sold as "Boston Baked Beans?"

Because New England housewives years ago baked the best pot of beans that ever filled a Saturday afternoon kitchen with an aroma so appetizing Mere Man couldn't wait for the table to be spread.

Did New England profit by it?

They let outsiders capitalize the Boston Baked Bean so that today it is dealt out from cans the country over, labelled Boston Baked Beans, but as far from the toothsome, wholesome original as State street is from Hong Kong.

What of the Boston Store?

Why Boston Store, any more than Chicago Store, or Cleveland Store?

Because a New England Conscience built upon reputation a standard of store keeping the fame of which travelled far and wide.

It was a business with a conscience; a super-conscience; a New England conscience.

So famous did it become that merchants in other cities adopted the title "Boston Store" because it conveyed immediately to buyers, Honesty and Value, the foundation of Business.

We have sheetings made in our mills; "too strongly made to be cheap." Pound for pound, yard for yard, they cannot be duplicated in the world. Does the world know that? No. But it would, Mr. Minute Man, if you labelled it something like this:

"Let the New England Conscience be Your Guide."

Certainly.

You Have Brains. Do You Want More?
Then Eat
CODFISH.
"Fresh from Cape Cod. Packed and Backed by a New England Conscience."

The consumption of fish per capita per year in the United States is 14 pounds. In England it is 52 pounds.

Think what it would mean to New England if America equalled England as a fish-eating nation.

Why should a case of goods ever leave New England for the marts of trade without the world pausing to read stenciled on their carton——

"LET THE NEW ENGLAND CONSCIENCE BE YOUR GUIDE?"

Our fine God-fearing ancestors gave us our New England Conscience.

Let us stop apologizing for it and turn it into an asset.
